THE PARIS MODES

Crepe de Chine Favored by Prominent Dressmaker.

Georgette Crepe is Close Rival for Dressy Afternoon Wear—Sheer Fabric Latest Novelty.

White crepe de chine dresses are often bound at the neck, edge of sleeves and the bottom of the skirt with bands of white velvet ribbon. In addition to the large motifs of lace one prominent Paris dressmaker is also using very narrow black lace insertion in the form of motifs on white crepe de chine dresses. She makes tiny rosettes, also of self-materials, which are appliqued in bands to form trimmings.

This maker continues to use the circular cut in many of her skirts. She has not deviated from this idea in spite of the fact that many Paris dressmakers have gone back to straight styles.

No one style of sleeve characterizes her line. Many of her evening dresses are entirely sleeveless, while day dresses often have short, tight-fitting, set-in sleeves; still other models have large flowing bell sleeves.

As a new afternoon material she has gone back to the old-fashioned black alpaca, of which she makes many tailored two-piece and three-piece suits. She also emphasizes the three and two-piece crepe de chine tailored suit.

One of the new points is a puffed collar which one sees on both dresses and suits. These puffed collars are particularly lovely on her dresses which have vertical band trimmings, in which instance the vertical lines are continued on the collar. She also particular accessories, and certainly this seems the thing to do if it is to be worn at all.

Ornamental girdles continue to be popular, some of the more practical ones of suede or plain leather having decidedly ornate clasps fashioned of colored stones.

PARASOL AND HAT TO MATCH

Sets May Be of Any Material Desired;
Checked Gingham is Popular
This Season.

Parasol and hat to match is a decidedly approved summer style. They may be of any material fancy may dictate. For a practical set of this sort checked gingham is playing a strong role, and when this fabric is combined with organdie in white or color some fetching things may be produced.

Parasols of chiffon, lace, organdie and silks galore are featured this season, and all sorts of novel and interesting trimmings appear on these sunshades. One dainty parasol recently seen was trimmed at the edge, half way up and at the point where it was joined to the frame with curled ostrich. Another was fringed with monkey fur. A white silk sunshade was finished at the edge with a dainty garland of field flowers. Such a parasol could be carried effectively by the bridesmaid or maid of honor at a summer afternoon wedding, big drooping hats to be similarly decorated and field flowers to be used for the bouquets.

Fancy silks of all sorts, either in all-over or bordered patterns, are being used for more practical parasols or umbrellas.

Still Fashionable.

Both the beaded bags and the jade jewelry have retained their popularity and for the same reason, because of their beauty. The latest bead bags are of the draw-string type, not the sort with stiff frames, but the kind that can be pulled together in a little pucker at the top and they swing easily from the wrist. Many of them have Indian symbols as designs and little fanciful beading stars or tassels as a finish.

Ink Froze Upon Her Pen.

Mrs. Spencer Jones, who is accompanying her husband, the well-known astronomer, to Christmas Island to prepare for September's total eclipse of the sun, will undertake important duties during the totality. She is only one of the many women who, today, take an interest in astronomy, and her action recalls the great name of Caroline Herschel, whose brother, Sir William, found her an invaluable assistant. He used to stand at night in the open air from dusk to dawn gazing down the tube of his mighty reflector, and he would dictate what he saw to his sister. She wrote down his notes and recorded the position of the objects which he was describing. It is said that sometimes the cold at Slough was so intense that the ink would freeze on her pen.

New Sand-Cutting Machine.

To provide the advantage of mechanically tempered sand in small foundries, for which the older sand-cutting machines are too large, a small light type of the same machine, weighing less than 700 pounds has been placed on the market.

The cutting principle remains the same, but power is needed only for rotating the cutting cylinder. The machine is propelled and guided by hand, like a pushcart, by grasping the rear frame member. One man can handle it on well-paved floors, but on soft or uneven floors, two are required.—Cleveland News-Leader.

ATTRACTIVE NEW FALL STYLE

This is a new fall creation in a street model made of navy point. Collar, cuffs and belt are trimmed with caracul fur, side panel and wash trimmed with cut-steel cabochons.

REAL HOPE OF NON-PARTISANS
FOR SUCCESS IS IN NORTH DAKOTA IS REPORTED

O'CONNOR, ANTI-LEAGUER, SAYS
RADICALISM DESTROYED IN NORTH DAKOTA

(By United Press.)

St. Paul, Nov. 7.—Reports in the northwest today were set to deliver another beating to the non-partisan league.

The only hope of the league candidates in Minnesota and the Dakotas where the league was born, was good roads and fair weather. Snow and rain was general this morning. Already in a bad way with its leaders at odds, the non-partisan league may go into a decline unless its candidates show unlooked for strength.

The real hope of the league for a claim on success was in North Dakota where Lynn J. Frazier had an excellent chance to win Senator Porter J. McCumber's seat in the United States senate.

Frazier was jubilant, and his supporters certain of victory, but today came rain and snow that mired the country districts.

Frazier refused to make any statements as to his chances.

J. T. F. O'Connor, democrat and endorsed by the anti-league forces, messaged the United Press:

"Radicalism in North Dakota completely destroyed and constitutional and representative governments vindicated. I expect to win because I have kept faith with the people of my state. Nestos will be re-elected by 25,000 majority and the independent ticket will carry but with a smaller majority."

Governor R. A. Nestos who defeated Frazier in the re-call two years ago was virtually considered re-elected. William Lemke, former Attorney General and non-partisan leader, who was recalled at the same time Frazier was, opposed Nestos.

In Minnesota the defeat of the League candidates with the possible exception of the senatorial contests, was virtually a foregone conclusion.

The republican state ticket was expected to go over with a big majority, Governor Preus leading the slate. The only quandary was in regard to the senatorship.

Anna Dickie Olesen, democratic woman was the unknown quantity in the race for the United States senatorship.

She was in the race with Senator Frank B. Kellogg, long a republican leader, and Dr. Henrik Shipstead, the nonpartisan who ever polled a really sizeable vote in the Gopher state.

Political sagacity dictated the belief that should Mrs. Olesen and Dr. Shipstead each poll over 125,000 votes Senator Frank B. Kellogg would be re-elected by a substantial majority. If either falls below 100,000—and there were a great many bets that Mrs. Olesen would not get over that mark—the other was considered a chance.

The weather, however, was expected to cut the country vote substantially. Whether Dr. Shipstead or Mrs. Olesen would suffer most by a light rural vote was a problem.

Mrs. Olesen in a strenuous 15 weeks campaign made a special appeal to the farmers and voters of the smaller communities. While a total vote of 600,000 was looked for, there was no certainty that mark would be reached. If it is not reached there is a possibility that Senator Kellogg will be beaten. The republicans were making a frantic last minute effort "to get out the vote."

Governor Preus was virtually conceded re-election. The state ticket was expected to go. In South Dakota the republican state ticket was expected to win, and the republican congressmen were also virtually conceded election.

PANIC REIGNS IN FOREIGN QUARTERS OF CONSTANTINOPLE BECAUSE OF KEMAL

(By United Press.)

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—Panic reigned in foreign quarters of Constantinople today as Turkish nationalist military forces advanced closer to the barbed wire barricades of British forces at Chanak.

The Kemalists served notice that the British would not be allowed to advance beyond the three mile neutral limit. General Harington, British commander, promptly entered a sharp protest to Ismet Pasha, Turkish commander, following this maneuver.

Disorders accompanied the panic in Constantinople coincident with the city's seizure by Kemal civil authorities and the menacing attitude of the Moslem military.

Four British were stabbed in street fighting. Greeks fled toward Saloniki fearing unprecedented massacres.

Allied Governments' Instructions

London, Nov. 7.—The allied governments today instructed their high commissioners in Constantinople to oppose vicious threats to violate the Mudania agreement with "force if necessary."

The foreign office let it be known that Britain will not in any way give in to Mustapha Kemal's demands. It is believed that Kemal is merely bluffing.

Republican and democratic headquarters agreed late today that the heavy vote in St. Paul and Minneapolis probably will decide the outcome of the senatorial contest at least.

Republicans and democrats believed Senator Frank B. Kellogg, Anna Dickie Olesen and Dr. Henrik Shipstead would have about an even break in the country. Nonpartisans claimed Dr. Shipstead's election and asserted he would carry the country by substantial majorities.

Democratic leaders said they expected Mrs. Olesen to carry St. Paul but conceded Minneapolis to Senator Kellogg.

PITNEY TO LEAVE

SUPREME COURT

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 7.—Associate Justice Pitney, of the United States supreme court, will resign from the bench shortly after congress reconvenes in the expected special session on November 20, it was said in reliable quarters here today.

Illness was said to be the reason for Pitney's contemplated resignation. He will be the third justice to resign from the court within the last few weeks.

RECLUSE IS FOUND

CONTRACTOR

FRIENDS WILL SEE THAT HE IS GIVEN AN HONORED
BURIAL

(By United Press.)

Minneapolis, Nov. 7.—Penniless, friendless and a recluse for many years, an old man was found dead in a poverty stricken hut on Hennepin avenue last night.

As Coroner Seashore was about to send him to Potters Field today, another feeble old man viewed the body. He thought he saw something familiar in the features.

The body of the aged recluse was later identified as that of Bengt Aronson, once a wealthy Minneapolis contractor, who built the Hennepin County court house, and a half dozen other of the largest buildings in Minneapolis. His brother Louis Aronson established positive identification.

The former wealthy contractor disappeared from Minneapolis fifteen years ago. Residents on lower Hennepin avenue said the old man set himself up in a shack years ago. He had no visitors, and lived entirely alone. He had destroyed everything that would tend to identify him. Friends will see that his burial is honored.

PAIR OF FRIENDS
OUTRAGE A GIRL

(By United Press.)

Fond du Lac, Wis., Nov. 7.—Seized by two men and held captive in an automobile until after midnight in a strip of woods several miles north of this city, Bernice Himman, 17, arrived at her home this morning exhausted and with her clothing torn from her. She fell in a faint as she reached the door, and it was nearly an hour before she could tell a coherent story.

The girl said that two men in a car stopped her a block from her home at 9 o'clock last night and that one seized her and held her, finally tying her with ropes as the car sped into the country. According to the girl both men assaulted her, and left her alone in the woods. The men are described as being middle aged. Police were scouring the country side this morning for a trace of the pair.

MONARCHIST REVOLT
IMMINENT IN GERMANY

(By United Press.)

London, Nov. 7.—A monarchist revolt lead by General Ludendorff is imminent in Bavaria, according to a central news dispatch from Berlin today.

The dispatch says that if the revolt is successful it will be spread into Germany and that the monarchist troops who will participate have been ordered to march to Berlin.

Unionist Have Near East Crisis

London, Nov. 7.—Lord Denby, minister of war in the Bonar Law cabinet, was summoned hurriedly to London today in connection with the Near East crisis.

The interruption of Lord Denby's speaking tour was considered a sign that the cabinet views as extremely grave the menace at Constantinople. An emergency meeting of the British cabinet was held and a message from General Harington at Constantinople was considered.

MRS. FRANCES N. HALL
EXPECTS INDICTMENT

(By United Press.)

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Frances N. Hall, widow of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, who was murdered with Mrs. Eleanor Mills nearly eight weeks ago, expects to be indicted by the Somerset county grand jury this week on a charge of first degree murder, it was said at her home today.

Two men are expected to be indicted with Mrs. Hall.

FACES AND BODIES SCORCHED
AND BROKEN BY THE FIRE OF THE BLAST

(By United Press.)

Johnstown, Penn., Nov. 7.—Ninety miners perished in the explosion at the Reilly Colliery No. 1 mine at Spangler yesterday, rescue workers and mine officials believed today. Rescue crews fought debris and poisonous gases all night in an effort to reach the men believed entombed in a large subterranean chamber.

About 40 were rescued alive. Poisonous gases killed most of the men as they made a vain attempt to throw up airtight barricades against the vapors, it was indicated from incoherent tales by the rescued men. A dozen or more of those brought to the surface are not expected to live. Their faces and bodies were scorched and broken by the fire of the blast. A complete casualty list will not be available until tomorrow, it was said.

51 Bodies Recovered

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 7.—Fifty-one bodies have been recovered from the Reilly mine wrecked yesterday by an explosion of gases, it was announced today, as rescue workers continued to clear away debris.

Fifty more bodies are believed lying in the ruined workings of the shaft. Hope that survivors other than those rescued yesterday will be found has been practically abandoned. Thirty-one men who were brought up from the shaft suffering from injuries and more dead than alive from poisonous gases, were in hospitals. Several first aid men are also recovering from exhaustion and gases.

Death Toll Unofficially Fixed

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 7.—The death toll in the Reilly mine, Spangler, has been unofficially fixed at 82 with 33 injured, several of them so badly that they may die. Sixty-five bodies have been recovered. Fifty-seven bodies have been identified, and it is believed that 17 are still in the mine. The most authoritative figures show that 118 entered the death trap yesterday morning.

Three escaped uninjured. Of the eight bodies still unidentified, it is believed several may never be recognized by relatives.

PITTSBURGH PLUS
DECISION DELAYED

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 7.—A decision in the Pittsburgh plus steel price plan cannot be reached by the federal trade commission before another six months, it was indicated when hearings were resumed here today.

The prosecution hopes to conclude its case which had continued since last January within the next six weeks. The defense, however, will require four or five months longer.

Reports of labor troubles at Melrose have been greatly exaggerated, E. A. Rustad, United States marshal, said today after communicating overlong distance telephone with deputies who were sent to that town to investigate complaints made by a committee which called on Mr. Rustad Tuesday.

"Judging from the list of names which was presented by a committee from Melrose things were in pretty bad shape there," Mr. Rustad said, "but when the reports were investigated my deputies learned that the situation had been greatly exaggerated.

"Had it not been that the committee made a special request for me to send deputies up there I would hardly have taken any notice of it."

Naturalization Exercises

Suitable naturalization exercises will be conducted in the court room at the court house, from 2 o'clock to 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in honor of the newly made citizens who will be given their final papers at the opening of district court.

The exercises will be under the auspices of the American Legion, and under the direct supervision of Rev. Fred Errington, A. A. Gleriet and Arthur Lyddon. Immediately following the exercises a luncheon will be served in the clerk of the district court's office, which is on the same floor as the court room.

All public spirited citizens are invited and urged to attend these exercises. In fact the committee points out that the public should show its interest in the newly made citizens and turn out in good numbers at this one of the most important events in the lives of the aliens who are signifying their desire to become citizens of this country.

OPEN REBELLION
FLARES UP IN DUBLIN
AGAINST FREE STATE

INSURGENT SNIPERS AMBUSHED
THREE LORRY LOADS OF NATIONAL TROOPS

DeVALERA ISSUES PROCLAMATION UNDER TITLE "PRESIDENT OF REPUBLIC"

(By United Press.)
Dublin, Nov. 7.—Open rebellion against the Irish Free State flared up in Dublin last night.

Insurgent snipers from alleyways ambushed three lorry loads of national troops in Angier street and many pedestrians were wounded in an exchange of volleys and the subsequent stampede to safety. A considerable force attacked Porto Bello barracks where Free State troops repulsed the onslaught.

The office of the "Irish Independent" was bombed.

These activities followed a proclamation signed by Eamonn DeValera who again assumed his erst while title of "President of the Irish Republic" and declared that his followers would fight until exterminated rather than cooperate with the Free State government.

Mary MacSwiney, sister of the Lord Mayor of Cork who died after a hunger strike, has herself gone on a hunger strike following her arrest according to an insurgent announcement.

"I do not know if they will let me die," Miss MacSwiney wrote in a letter made public by DeValera aids.

"If they do, pray for me that I shall have courage to go through with it."

GREAT AMERICAN
JURY REGISTERED
ITS VERDICT TODAY

UPON WORK OF THOSE WHO CONTROLLED THE NATION'S POLITICAL DESTINY

EXPRESSED JUDGMENT ON CONTROL TO BE EXERCISED IN NEXT TWO YEARS

(By United Press.)

New York, Nov. 7.—The great American jury today registered its verdict upon the work of those who have controlled the nation's political destiny the past two years, and expressed its judgment concerning the control to be exercised for the coming two years.

With the opening of the polls this morning, the off year congressional election was underway. The entire membership of the house of representatives, 435, was to be elected, and 34 United States senators, 33 governors, many state legislators and a host of state, county and municipal officials were to be elected.

Election day found leaders of the republican party swept into power two years ago on the crest of a land slide, claiming gains in the senate, and conceding losses in the house, but insisting they would control the next house by from 40 to 60 votes. Democratic leaders disputed republican claims of senatorship gains and said the house margin would be cut to 20 or perhaps wiped out.

The people were voting largely on a local basis, that is, there was no great nation-wide political enthusiasm, and the issues were local rather than national. Politicians called it a "petty election" because in some states the interest was strong, while in most of them apathy prevailed up to election day.

These states represented the most interesting contests:

Ohio—President Harding's home state, was asked by all the "big guns" of the administration to give strong approval to the president and his policies by electing Carmel Thompson, governor, and Simeon D. Fess to the senate. Democrats made an aggressive fight behind Senator Atlee Pomerene and A. R. Donahey, their candidate for governor.

Minnesota—Mrs. Anna Dickie Olesen, democrat, and Henrik Shipstead, farmer-labor, have gone after Senator Frank B. Kellogg, republican, hammer and tongs in one of the most interesting campaigns Minnesota has ever seen.

Michigan—The issue of Newberryism was prominent all through the campaign of Senator Townsend, republican for re-election. Former Governor Ferris is opposing him. Townsend voted to seat Newberry, his Michigan colleague and has been assailed generally for it.

New York—Interest centered in the gubernatorial contest between Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, democrat and Governor Nathan Miller, republican. If Smith wins today he will, his friends asserted, be the outstanding democratic figure for the presidency in 1924. The senatorial contest between Senators Calder, republican and Dr. Royal S. Copeland, democrat, was rather lost sight of in the heat of the Smith-Miller battle.

REAL HOPE OF NON-PARTISANS FOR SUCCESS IS IN NORTH DAKOTA IS REPORTED

Frazier refused to make any statements as to his chances.

J. T. F. O'Connor, democrat and endorsed by the anti-league forces, messaged the United Press:

"Radicalism in North Dakota completely destroyed and constitutional and representative governments vindicated. I expect to win because I have kept faith with the people of my state. Nestos will be re-elected by 25,000 majority and the independent ticket will carry but with a smaller majority."

Governor R. A. Nestos who defeated Frazier in the re-call two years ago was virtually considered re-elected. William Lemke, former Attorney General and non-partisan leader, who was recalled at the same time Frazier was, opposed Nestos.

In Minnesota the defeat of the League candidates with the possible exception of the senatorial contests, was virtually a foregone conclusion.

The republican state ticket was expected to go over with a big majority, Governor Preus leading the state. The only quandary was in regard to the senatorship.

Anna Dickle Olesen, democratic woman was the unknown quantity in the race for the United States senatorship.

She was in the race with Senator Frank B. Kellogg, long a republican leader, and Dr. Henrik Shipstead, the nonpartisan who ever polled a really sizeable vote in the Gopher state.

Political sagacity dictated the belief that should Mrs. Olesen and Dr. Shipstead each poll over 125,000 votes Senator Frank B. Kellogg would be re-elected by a substantial majority. If either falls below 100,000—and there were a great many bets that Mrs. Olesen would not get over that mark—the other was considered a chance.

The weather, however, was expected to cut the country vote substantially. Whether Dr. Shipstead or Mrs. Olesen would suffer most by a light rural vote was a problem.

Mrs. Olesen in a strenuous 15 weeks campaign made a special appeal to the farmers and voters of the smaller communities. While a total vote of 600,000 was looked for, there was no certainty that mark would be reached. If it is not reached there is a possibility that Senator Kellogg will be beaten. The republicans were making a frantic last minute effort "to get out the vote."

Governor Preus was virtually conceded re-election. The state ticket was expected to go. In South Dakota the republican state ticket was expected to win, and the republican congressmen were also virtually conceded election.

Twin Cities Deciding Factor

St. Paul, Nov. 7.—The Twin Cities will decide the election in Minnesota.

PANIC REIGNS IN FOREIGN QUARTERS OF CONSTANTINOPLE BECAUSE OF KEMAL

(By United Press.)

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—Panic reigned in foreign quarters of Constantinople today as Turkish nationalist military forces advanced closer to the barbed wire barricades of British forces at Chanak.

The Kemalists served notice that the British would not be allowed to advance beyond the three mile neutral limit. General Harington, British commander, promptly entered a sharp protest to Ismet Pasha, Turkish commander, following this maneuver.

Disorders accompanied the panic in Constantinople coincident with the city's seizure by Kemal civil authorities and the menacing attitude of the Moslem military.

Four British were stabbed in street fighting. Greeks fled toward Saloniki fearing unprecedented massacres.

Allied Governments' Instructions London, Nov. 7.—The allied governments today instructed their high commissioners in Constantinople to oppose vicious threats to violate the Mudania agreement with "force if necessary."

The foreign office let it be known that Britain will not in any way give in to Mustapha Kemal's demands. It is believed that Kemal is merely bluffing.

Republican and democratic headquarters agreed late today that the heavy vote in St. Paul and Minneapolis probably will decide the outcome of the senatorial contest at least.

Republicans and democrats believed Senator Frank B. Kellogg, Anna Dickle Olesen and Dr. Henrik Shipstead would have about an even break in the country. Nonpartisans claimed Dr. Shipstead's election and asserted he would carry the country by substantial majorities.

Democratic leaders said they expected Mrs. Olesen to carry St. Paul but conceded Minneapolis to Senator Kellogg.

PITNEY TO LEAVE SUPREME COURT

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 7.—Associate Justice Pitney, of the United States supreme court, will resign from the bench shortly after congress reconvenes in the expected special session on November 20, it was said in reliable quarters here today.

Illness was said to be the reason for Pitney's contemplated resignation. He will be the third justice to resign from the court within the last few weeks.

RECLUSE IS FOUND DEAD IN HIS HUT IN THE MILL CITY

LATER IDENTIFIED AS FORMER WEALTHY MINNEAPOLIS CONTRACTOR

FRIENDS WILL SEE THAT HE IS GIVEN AN HONORED BURIAL

(By United Press.)

Minneapolis, Nov. 7.—Penniless, friendless and a recluse for many years, an old man was found dead in a poverty stricken hut on Hennepin avenue last night.

As Coroner Seashore was about to send him to Potters Field today, another feeble old man viewed the body. He thought he saw something familiar in the features.

The body of the aged recluse was later identified as that of Bengt Aronson, once a wealthy Minneapolis contractor, who built the Hennepin County court house, and a half dozen other of the largest buildings in Minneapolis. His brother Louis Aronson established positive identification.

The former wealthy contractor disappeared from Minneapolis fifteen years ago. Residents on lower Hennepin avenue said the old man set himself up in a shack years ago. He had no visitors, and lived entirely alone. He had destroyed everything that would tend to identify him. Friends will see that his burial is honored.

PAIR OF FRIENDS OUTRAGE A GIRL

(By United Press.)

Fond du Lac, Wis., Nov. 7.—Seized by two men and held captive in an automobile until after midnight in a strip of woods several miles north of this city, Bernice Hinman, 17, arrived at her home this morning exhausted and with her clothing torn from her. She fell in a faint as she reached the door, and it was nearly an hour before she could tell a coherent story.

The girl said that two men in a car stopped her a block from her home at 9 o'clock last night and that one seized her and held her, finally tying her with ropes as the car sped into the country. According to the girl both men assaulted her, and left her alone in the woods. The men are described as being middle aged. Police were scouring the country side this morning for a trace of the pair.

MONARCHIST REVOLT IMMINENT IN GERMANY

(By United Press.)

London, Nov. 7.—A monarchist revolt lead by General Ludendorff is imminent in Bavaria, according to a central news dispatch from Berlin today.

The dispatch says that if the revolt is successful it will be spread into Germany and that the monarchist troops who will participate have been ordered to march to Berlin.

Unionist Have Near East Crisis

London, Nov. 7.—Lord Denby, minister of war in the Bonar Law cabinet, was summoned hurriedly to London today in connection with the Near East crisis.

The interruption of Lord Denby's speaking tour was considered a sign that the cabinet views as extremely grave the menace at Constantinople. An emergency meeting of the British cabinet was held and a message from General Harington at Constantinople was considered.

MRS. FRANCES N. HALL EXPECTS INDICTMENT

(By United Press.)

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Frances N. Hall, widow of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, who was murdered with Mrs. Eleanor Mills nearly eight weeks ago, expects to be indicted by the Somerset county grand jury this week on a charge of first degree murder, it was said at her home today.

Two men are expected to be indicted with Mrs. Hall.

RESCUE CREWS BATTLE DEBRIS AND POISONOUS GASES

ABOUT 40 WERE RESCUED ALIVE, SOME BROUGHT OUT MAY NOT LIVE

FACES AND BODIES SCORCHED AND BROKEN BY THE FIRE OF THE BLAST

(By United Press.)

Johnstown, Penn., Nov. 7.—Ninety miners perished in the explosion at the Rellly Colliery No. 1 mine at Spangler yesterday, rescue workers and mine officials believed today. Rescue crews fought debris and poisonous gases all night in an effort to reach the men believed entombed in a large subterranean chamber.

About 40 were rescued alive. Poisonous gases killed most of the men as they made a vain attempt to throw up airtight barricades against the vapors, it was indicated from incoherent tales by the rescued men. A dozen or more of those brought to the surface are not expected to live. Their faces and bodies were scorched and broken by the fire of the blast. A complete casualty list will not be available until tomorrow, it was said.

51 Bodies Recovered

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 7.—Fifty-one bodies have been recovered from the Rellly mine wrecked yesterday by an explosion of gases, it was announced today, as rescue workers continued to clear away debris.

Fifty more bodies are believed lying in the ruined workings of the shaft. Hope that survivors other than those rescued yesterday will be found has been practically abandoned. Thirty-one men who were brought up from the shaft suffering from injuries and more dead than alive from poisonous gases, were in hospitals. Several first aid men are also recovering from exhaustion and gases.

Death Toll Unofficially Fixed

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 7.—The death toll in the Rellly mine, Spangler, has been unofficially fixed at 82 with 33 injured, several of them so badly that they may die. Sixty-five bodies have been recovered. Fifty-seven bodies have been identified, and it is believed that 17 are still in the mine. The most authoritative figures show that 118 entered the death trap yesterday morning.

Three escaped uninjured. Of the eight bodies still unidentified, it is believed several may never be recognized by relatives.

PITTSBURGH PLUS DECISION DELAYED

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 7.—A decision in the Pittsburgh plus steel price plan cannot be reached by the federal trade commission before another six months, it was indicated when hearings were resumed here today.

The prosecution hopes to conclude its case which had continued since last January within the next six weeks. The defense, however, will require four or five months longer.

Naturalization Exercises

Suitable naturalization exercises will be conducted in the court room at the court house, from 2 o'clock to 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in honor of the newly made citizens, who will be given their final papers at the opening of district court.

The exercises will be under the auspices of the American Legion, and under the direct supervision of Rev. Fred Errington, A. A. Gieriet and Arthur Lyndon. Immediately following the exercises a luncheon will be served in the clerk of the district court's office, which is on the same floor as the court room.

All public spirited citizens are invited and urged to attend these exercises. In fact the committee points out that the public should show its interest in the newly made citizens and turn out in good numbers at this, one of the most important events in the lives of the aliens who are signifying their desire to become citizens of this country.

OPEN REBELLION FLARES UP IN DUBLIN AGAINST FREE STATE

INSURGENT SNIPERS AMBUSHED THREE LORRY LOADS OF NATIONAL TROOPS

DeVALERA ISSUES PROCLAMATION UNDER TITLE "PRESIDENT OF REPUBLIC"

(By United Press.) Dublin, Nov. 7.—Open rebellion against the Irish Free State flared up in Dublin last night.

Insurgent snipers from alleyways ambushed three lorry loads of national troops in Angier street and many pedestrians were wounded in an exchange of volleys and the subsequent stampede to safety. A considerable force attacked Porto Bello barracks where Free State troops repulsed the onslaught.

The office of the "Irish Independent" was bombed.

These activities followed a proclamation signed by Eamonn DeValera who again assumed his erst while title of "President of the Irish Republic" and declared that his followers would fight until exterminated rather than cooperate with the Free State government.

Mary MacSwiney, sister of the Lord Mayor of Cork who died after a hunger strike, has herself gone on a hunger strike following her arrest according to an insurgent announcement.

"I do not know if they will let me die," Miss MacSwiney wrote in a letter made public by DeValera aids. "If they do, pray for me that I shall have courage to go through with it."

GREAT AMERICAN JURY REGISTERED ITS VERDICT TODAY

UPON WORK OF THOSE WHO CONTROLLED THE NATION'S POLITICAL DESTINY

EXPRESSED JUDGMENT ON CONTROL TO BE EXERCISED IN NEXT TWO YEARS

(By United Press.) New York, Nov. 7.—The great American jury today registered its verdict upon the work of those who have controlled the nation's political destiny the past two years, and expressed its judgment concerning the control to be exercised for the coming two years.

With the opening of the polls this morning, the off year congressional election was underway. The entire membership of the house of representatives, 435, was to be elected, and 34 United States senators, 33 governors, many state legislators and a host of state, county and municipal officials were to be elected.

Election day found leaders of the republican party swept into power two years ago on the crest of a land slide, claiming gains in the senate, and conceding losses in the house, but insisting they would control the next house by from 40 to 60 votes. Democratic leaders disputed republican claims of senatorship gains and said the house margin would be cut to 20 or perhaps wiped out.

The people were voting largely on a local basis, that is, there was no great nation-wide political enthusiasm, and the issues were local rather than national. Politicians called it a "petty election" because in some states the interest was strong, while in most of them apathy prevailed up to election day.

These states represented the most interesting contests:

Ohio—President Harding's home state, was asked by all the "big guns" of the administration to give strong approval to the president and his policies by electing Carmi Thompson, governor, and Simeon D. Fess to the senate. Democrats made an aggressive fight behind Senator Atlee Pomerene and A. R. Donahy, their candidate for governor.

Minnesota—Mrs. Anna Dickle Olesen, democrat, and Henrik Shipstead, farmer-labor, have gone after Senator Frank B. Kellogg, republican, hammer and tongs in one of the most interesting campaigns Minnesota has ever seen.

Michigan—The issue of Newberryism was prominent all through the campaign of Senator Townsend, republican for re-election. Former Governor Ferris is opposing him. Townsend voted to seat Newberry, his Michigan colleague and has been assailed generally for it.

New York—Interest centered in the gubernatorial contest between Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, democrat and Governor Nathan Miller, republican. If Smith wins today he will, his friends asserted, be the outstanding democratic figure for the presidency in 1924. The senatorial contest between Senators Calder, republican and Dr. Royal S. Copeland, democrat, was rather lost sight of in the heat of the Smith-Miller battle.

"A PARALLEL"

Reports of Labor Trouble at Melrose Greatly Exaggerated

(Star)

Reports of labor troubles at Melrose have been greatly exaggerated, E. A. Rustad, United States marshal, said today after communicating over long distance telephone with deputies who were sent to that town to investigate complaints made by a committee which called on Mr. Rustad Tuesday.

"Judging from the list of names which was presented by a committee from Melrose things were in pretty bad shape there," Mr. Rustad said, "but when the reports were investigated my deputies learned that the situation had been greatly exaggerated.

"Had it not been that the committee made a special request for me to send deputies up there I would hardly have taken any notice of it."

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

A rainy Sunday but one filled with blessings for those who braved the weather. The Sunday school changed its order of service and had a song service to bring happiness and sunshine in. Rev. Kelly told of an incident in the late war when one of the British armies had a vision of the cross on No Man's Land and how the entire army sang "Rock of Ages" and "In the Cross of Christ I Glory".

At a meeting of the council last Thursday night a constitution and by-laws were accepted. Many things of interest and benefit to the school were discussed. The council will meet the first Thursday in December and will be entertained by Mrs. Risk and Orth at the home of the former.

The Aid will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Jackson and be entertained by Mrs. Jackson, Weisz and Hagberg.

Thursday evening is prayer meeting night and the study of the Creed will be begun.

High lights from the sermon Sunday morning on:
 "Shall We Mix Religion and Politics," scripture Judges 5:23, Matt. 6:10. "The slacker is found not only in the day of military struggles but every where that a great moral struggle is waged."

"We find the 'Slacker' in the pew and the 'Slacker' in the pulpit men who are scared to speak the truth lest it might disturb the soul of some subscriber."

"Some men are so sensitive in soul, so timid in judgment, so flabby in principle, so spineless in their Christianity, that they are in mortal dread of the preacher speaking any unpleasant truth."

"Neither the Christian nor the church can avoid political questions because it is their business to establish the kingdom of God on earth."

"The gospel must deal with political issues because every Christian is responsible for the community in which he lives." The prayer meeting is the power house where we get the energy of the spirit of God, but the polling booth is about the best place to let it loose.

"The man who neglects his political duty is guilty of sin against God." "A man's duty to the state is just as sacred, just as God given as his duty to his home and his church."

"Are you studying the great issues of the day in the light of the sermon on the Mount? Did you ever get down on your knees to ask God to show you how to vote at the coming election?"

BRAINERD 33, CROSBY 0

Whale of a Game Played Saturday on Wet Field Near the Gas House

MACHINE HAD SWISS MOVEMENT

Each Member of Brainerd Eleven Fought Like a Wildcat, Big Crowd See Game

The old high school football outfit isn't so bad after all. Brainerd took Crosby's best eleven into camp last Saturday with a 33-0 score, after a strenuous battle on a wet field.

Crosby won the toss and the locals kicked to them. The visitors hammered the line but lost the ball on downs. Brainerd took the ball and staged a brilliant play in which Heikkenen made a touch down before the game was in progress three minutes.

The second quarter saw Peterson cross the goal line for Brainerd. The crowd on the side-lines were in the air. The game was well in Brainerd's hands, Fogelstrom calling line plunges and end runs put Heikkenen on his way for two more touchdowns.

In the last minute of the game Heikkenen, tore down the field for 50 yards and placed six more points on the locals' tally, and the game was over.

The machine had a swiss movement, each member fighting like a wild cat. Jerry Anderson got his chance and showed up with a Bull Montana grit in his first game. Lowe plunged 5 or 6 yards through the center every time he got the ball. It was hard to pick a star brighter than the rest as they all shone with equal brightness.

Coach Rosell is to be congratulated on the wonderful improvement in his team. Brainerd made downs 28 times while Crosby succeeded but three times. It shows a well timed exactness in plays. Crosby fought desperately but was outplayed in every way.

The business men as well as the students turned out in throngs loyally supporting the team that was thought lost. Olsen worked his crew up to a frantic pitch which sent out deafening yells. Brainerd on the whole had a whale of a time.

Ignorant.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

A rainy Sunday but one filled with blessings for those who braved the weather. The Sunday school changed its order of service and had a song service to bring happiness and sunshine in. Rev. Kelly told of an incident in the late war when one of the British armies had a vision of the cross on No Man's Land and how the entire army sang "Rock of Ages" and "In the Cross of Christ I Glory".

At a meeting of the council last Thursday night a constitution and by-laws were accepted. Many things of interest and benefit to the school were discussed. The council will meet the first Thursday in December and will be entertained by Mrs. Risk and Orth at the home of the former.

The Aid will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Jackson and be entertained by Mrs. Jackson, Weisz and Hagberg.

Thursday evening is prayer meeting night and the study of the Creed will be begun.

High lights from the sermon Sunday morning on:

"Shall We Mix Religion and Politics," scripture Judges 5:23, Matt. 6:10. "The slacker is found not only in the day of military struggles but every where that a great moral struggle is waged."

"We find the 'Slacker' in the pew and the 'Slacker' in the pulpit men who are scared to speak the truth lest it might disturb the soul of some subscriber."

"Some men are so sensitive in soul, so timid in judgment, so flabby in principle, so spineless in their christianity, that they are in mortal dread of the preacher speaking any unpleasant truth."

"Neither the Christian nor the church can avoid political questions because it is their business to establish the kingdom of God on earth."

"The gospel must deal with political issues because every Christian is responsible for the community in which he lives." The prayer meeting is the power house where we get the energy of the spirit of God, but the polling booth is about the best place to let it loose."

"The man who neglects his political duty is guilty of sin against God."

"A man's duty to the state is just as sacred, just as God given as his duty to his home and his church."

"Are you studying the great issues of the day in the light of the sermon on the Mount? Did you ever get down on your knees to ask God to show you how to vote at the coming election?"

Whale of a Game Played Saturday on Wet Field Near the Gas House

MACHINE HAD SWISS MOVEMENT

Each Member of Brainerd Eleven Fought Like a Wildcat, Big Crowd See Game (W. G.)

The old high school football outfit isn't so bad after all. Brainerd took Crosby's best eleven into camp last Saturday with a 33-0 score, after a strenuous battle on a wet field.

Crosby won the toss and the locals kicked to them. The visitors hammered the line but lost the ball on downs. Brainerd took the ball and staged a brilliant play in which Heikkinen made a touch down before the game was in progress three minutes.

The second quarter saw Peterson cross the goal line for Brainerd. The crowd on the side-lines were in the air. The game was well in Brainerd's hands, Fogelstrom calling line plunges and end runs put Heikkinen on his way for two more touchdowns. In the last minute of the game Heikkinen, tore down the field for 59 yards and placed six more points on the locals' tally, and the game was over.

The machine had a swiss movement, each member fighting like a wild cat. Jerry Anderson got his chance and showed up with a Bull Montana griff in his first game. Lowe plunged 5 or 6 yards through the center every time he got the ball. It was hard to pick a star brighter than the rest as they all shone with equal brightness.

Coach Rosell is to be congratulated on the wonderful improvement in his team. Brainerd made downs 28 times while Crosby succeeded but three times. It shows a well timed exactness in plays. Crosby fought desperately but was outplayed in every way.

The business men as well as the students turned out in throngs loyally supporting the team that was thought lost. Olsen worked his crew up to a frantic pitch which sent out deafening yells. Brainerd on the whole had a whale of a time.

HAVE ONLY DUDS THAT FOLD WELL

There Are Many Sorts of Clothes
Suitable for the Summer
Vacation Trip.

THE USEFUL BOUDOIR WRAP

Garment Serves for Bath Robe but
Can Be Used for Room Gown—
Hand-Made Dress and Cape
to Match.

These are traveling days for everybody. But how to do the journeying without all the trunks and bags and hat boxes in the world is one of those problems not so easy to solve.

The woman who starts off on her summer vacation burdened with too many dress and hat carriers is bound to have some unhappy moments before she has finished her holidays. She will be far wiser, states a fashion writer in the New York Times, to study out her needs before she starts away and indulge right from the start in the process of elimination. She can be well dressed in a small space just as efficiently as she can by taking up all the room in her vicinity. It is only necessary to take the right things and the most foldable things along with her.

There are plenty of pretty clothes that really have no place in a traveler's luggage unless that traveler is equipped with a maid or two and pressing facilities galore. Those dresses might just as well remain at home when the average woman is doing her tripping, for they will be of little or no use to her once she has wrestled their tangled meshes from the crowded masses of her trunk. Ruffles will not withstand packing unless they are coaxed back to life through the expenditure of much time and energy. And who wants to expend these valuable possessions when off for a summer splurge?

On the other hand, there are so many sorts of clothes, especially among the present styles, that seem fitted by nature to go traveling. They telescope themselves without any assistance, and they come out from the confines of tightly packed luggage looking their own charming selves.

Plan for Comfort.

Naturally, these are the frocks to be chosen for the summer, if one is planning with the least foresight and care for one's ultimate comfort. All of the crepe and chiffon dresses, which are so important a part of the present summer wardrobe, fold into small spaces with the greatest of ease and grace. In the first place, they are cut along such straight and simple lines that they fairly beg to be packed just to show how particularly well they can stand the strain. A woman may fold them just as she would lay together a piece of straight material, with no more fear that the wrinkles will be noticeable when the dress is dragged from the trunk.

The silken and chiffon materials are woven with such great art and care that they take to packing with no more terror than if they were meant for that alone. In other words, they have such body and flexibility that they need fear no wrinkles or permanent folds, and the owner need fear none for them. She is safe when she keeps to these materials, for they are so adaptable that they will stand her in good stead no matter what demands may be made upon them.

There is much in the way the gowns are cut. The simpler they are the better. For if there is too much draping about them, then they are let in for extra crossings, which may not be so good after much traveling about. But the straight lines fold into small places so naturally that they emerge without showing the traces of packing.

Of course, every woman needs a boudoir wrap of some sort wherever

Some of the delegates to the eleventh convention of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, to be held in Philadelphia November 11-16, will circumnavigate the globe in their journey to take part in their first convention ever held on "dry" land. Delegates from 40 nations will attend this world rally which will take place in the Academy of Music.

Many delegates are now on their way from Australia, Japan, China, India, Egypt, Turkey, Africa, England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, France, Cuba, Mexico, Canada, and several of the South American countries.

Mme. Kubushiro, national corresponding secretary of Japan's W. C. T. U., and a niece of Mme. Kaji Yajima, Japan's most famous woman, will come as an official delegate. She will represent her organization which owns its own headquarters at Tokyo, and has a membership of more than 5,000. Miss Uta Hayashi from Osaka, decorated by the emperor for her work among women, will accompany Mme. Kubushiro.

Miss Marie Stenroth, an author of national repute, will represent her government which has commissioned her to study prohibition and the problems involved in its enforcement and make a report.

The Baroness de Laveleye, president of Belgium's W. C. T. U., will be the official delegate of her country. Miss Dagmar Prior will represent Norway and Denmark.

From Edinburgh comes Miss Jane Darling, proprietor of the Darling Regent hotel, known the world over. It has been in the family many years and has always been conducted on temperance lines.

Miss Consuelo Valdez is the delegate from the Philippine Islands. She is a graduate of the School of Pharmacy, University of the Philippines, and is now taking special courses at North western university, Chicago.

Fraulein Wilhelmina Lohmann is one of the German delegates. She was the moving spirit of the recent semi-official vote, the first prohibition vote ever taken in Germany, where at Bielefeld, the unexpected number of 12,621 votes was returned for prohibition out of a poll of 14,061. Fraulein Gustel von Blucher, the great grand niece of the famous field marshal, will also attend the World convention as a delegate.

design. It is cut and designed so that it covers the person, and at the same time its material is cool and pleasant to the touch even on the hottest of summer days. It has been lined with a red China silk, and that lining is carried out at the front so that it forms a sort of revers all the way to the foot of the garment. This facing then continues throughout the garment, so that it helps to give form and substance to the thing and, at the same time, adds so little extra weight and bulk that it is scarcely appreciable. At the places where the gown splits and opens the red lining can be seen through the interstices, and that alone tends to give a trimmed, gala appearance which is most attractive and which breaks the general design of the all-over pattern in an interesting manner.

One never knows until one owns a garment of this sort—midway between the wrapper and the housegown—what a comfort it can be on a trip. Something of this sort comes to mean com-weight and body and trimming then she would find herself forced into adding extra luggage to accommodate the extra frills.

Keep the cape simple and the dress simple and half of the traveling battle is fought. And, if the reader follows the scheme, she will have a silk suit which can always be worn for afternoon, often for evening, and sometimes in the morning hours. Moreover, silk is cool, it can stand wet weather and when a colder day makes its appearance the owner can still look well in a silk dress under her heavier coat. There is no angle from which a dress of this character is not satisfactory, and this season to be right in the height of style it is desirable to have it made of that café au lait color which has taken the place of gray in smart circles. It is a color which goes with most everything and which is becoming to many types.

Avoid Extra Hat Box.

By avoiding the extra hat box, the traveler may save herself all sorts of worry and bother and porter fees. For, with only one bag, she can, in an emergency, drag herself and it around, but with two the situation becomes hopeless. She will find when she starts to shop that there are all sorts of little and becoming hats that can be folded along with dresses—as flat as can be, and which will still emerge with none of that mashed appearance. She will try to thank herself for providing herself with this sort of hat instead of the stiffer variety which must be cared for so particularly and which, even then, is apt to come forth after a train or boat trip with that sad and spotty appearance for which there is no salvation. There are little woolen hats done in bright and interesting colors. Some are made of draped ribbons, and sturdy ones of blocked felt that mesh into small places with the greatest agility and come forth to surprise one by their well-oomed look.

The Bishop Reformed.

Phillip Brooks likes to have his joke as well as any man. One day Mr. Baldwin of the Christian union was writing to him and slipped into the letter a newspaper clipping of a talk he had given on profanity. Promptly came the answer from the good bishop: "I have just finished reading your remarks on profanity. You will be glad to know that I agree with them and have entirely abandoned the habit."—Boston Transcript.

Seems Reasonable.

fort in a way nothing else could. Every time the owner puts it on she will thank a kind Providence for having led her to the decision that brought that particular article of apparel into her wardrobe.

The hand-made dress and cape to match is the sort of thing that is born for packing. The fabric is a heavy canton crepe, and the dress is made along the straightest of lines. There are lines of hemstitching and drawn work for its trimming, and there is not a frill or furbelow that can suffer from packing. Anyone who has owned one of these frocks knows how small a place they take up when folded together, and how satisfactory they are through many months of wear and tear.

Cape of Same Material.

This dress has a cape made of the same material and lined with a light-weight crepe de chine. It may be worn with this dress or with others as a light summer evening wrap, and, for that reason, it serves a place in the traveler's wardrobe which cannot easily be taken by any other sort of garment. Presumably the reader has worn a suit while traveling, and has carried an extra heavy wrap over her arm, but neither the suitcoat nor the outer wrap is going to serve for evening demands with which she will be confronted, no matter where she goes. But this wrap can be folded into the smallest of spaces and taken forth on many occasions. Without it a woman would be quite at a loss and if she attempted to pack anything with more

An allegorical concept of the Red Cross as a peace-time ideal is employed by the American Red Cross in a new and striking poster for its Annual Red Cross Roll Call. Spread out before the heroic size figure is the outline of the United States with a Red Cross superimposed upon it while around its borders are sketched scenes depicting the chief activities of the Red Cross today—service to disabled veterans of the World War, disaster relief and promotion of the public health. The poster is the work of Lawrence Wilbur, a New York artist and will be displayed throughout the country during the enrollment of the Red Cross membership for 1923.

REAL POETS ARE PROPHETS

They Participate in the Eternal, the Infinite and the One,
Says Shelley.

Every original language near to its source is in itself the chaos of a cyclic poem; the copiousness of lexicography and the distinctions of grammar are the works of a later age, and are merely the catalogue and the form of the creations of poetry.

But poets, or those who imagine and express this indistinguishable order, are not only the authors of language and of music, of the dance, and architecture, and statuary, and painting; they are the institutors of laws, and the founders of civil society, and the inventors of the arts of life, and the teachers, who draw into a certain proximity with the beautiful and the true, that partial apprehension of the agencies of the invisible world which is called religion. . . . Not that I assert poets to be prophets in the gross sense of the world, or that they can foretell the form as surely as they foreknow the spirit of events; such is the pretense of superstition, which would make poetry an attribute of prophecy rather than prophecy an attribute of poetry. A poet participates in the eternal, the infinite, and the one; as far as relates to his conceptions, time and place and number are not. The grammatical forms which express the moods of time, and the difference of persons, and the distinction of place, are convertible with respect to the highest poetry without injuring it as poetry; and the choruses of Aeschylus, and the Book of Job, and Dante's Paradise, would afford, more than any other writings, examples of this fact.—Shelley.

There Are Many Sorts of Clothes
Suitable for the Summer
Vacation Trip.

THE USEFUL BOUDOIR WRAP

Garment Serves for Bath Robe but
Can Be Used for Room Gown—
Hand-Made Dress and Cape
to Match.

These are traveling days for everybody. But how to do the journeying without all the trunks and bags and hat boxes in the world is one of those problems not so easy to solve.

The woman who starts off on her summer vacation burdened with too many dress and hat carriers is bound to have some unhappy moments before she has finished her holidays. She will be far wiser, states a fashion writer in the New York Times, to study out her needs before she starts away and indulge right from the start in the process of elimination. She can be well dressed in a small space just as efficiently as she can by taking up all the room in her vicinity. It is only necessary to take the right things and the most foldable things along with her.

There are plenty of pretty clothes that really have no place in a traveler's luggage unless that traveler is equipped with a maid or two and pressing facilities galore. Those dresses might just as well remain at home when the average woman is doing her tripping, for they will be of little or no use to her once she has wrested their tangled meshes from the crowded masses of her trunk. Ruffles will not withstand packing unless they are coaxed back to life through the expenditure of much time and energy. And who wants to expend these valuable possessions when off for a summer splurge?

On the other hand, there are so many sorts of clothes, especially among the present styles, that seem fitted by nature to go traveling. They telescope themselves without any assistance, and they come out from the confines of tightly packed luggage looking their own charming selves.

Plan for Comfort.

Naturally, these are the frocks to be chosen for the summer, if one is planning with the least foresight and care for one's ultimate comfort. All of the crepe and chiffon dresses, which are so important a part of the present summer wardrobe, fold into small spaces with the greatest of ease and grace. In the first place, they are cut along such straight and simple lines that they fairly beg to be packed just to show how particularly well they can stand the strain. A woman may fold them just as she would lay together a piece of straight material, with no more fear that the wrinkles will be noticeable when the dress is dragged from the trunk.

The silken and chiffon materials are woven with such great art and care that they take to packing with no more terror than if they were meant for that alone. In other words, they have such body and flexibility that they need fear no wrinkles or permanent folds, and the owner need fear none for them. She is safe when she keeps to these materials, for they are so adaptable that they will stand her in good stead no matter what demands may be made upon them.

There is much in the way the gowns are cut. The simpler they are the better. For if there is too much draping about them, then they are let in for extra creasings, which may not be so good after much traveling about. But the straight lines fold into small places so naturally that they emerge without showing the traces of packing.

Of course, every woman needs a boudoir wrap of some sort wherever

Some of the delegates to the eleventh convention of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, to be held in Philadelphia November 11-16, will circumnavigate the globe in their journey to take part in their first convention ever held on "dry" land. Delegates from 40 nations will attend this world rally which will take place in the Academy of Music.

Many delegates are now on their way from Australia, Japan, China, India, Egypt, Turkey, Africa, England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, France, Cuba, Mexico, Canada, and several of the South American countries.

Mme. Kubushiro, national corresponding secretary of Japan's W. C. T. U., and a niece of Mme. Kaji Yajima, Japan's most famous woman, will come as an official delegate. She will represent her organization which owns its own headquarters at Tokyo, and has a membership of more than 5,000. Miss Uta Hayashi from Osaka, decorated by the emperor for her work among women, will accompany Mme. Kubushiro.

Miss Marie Stenroth, an author of national repute, will represent her government which has commissioned her to study prohibition and the problems involved in its enforcement and make a report.

The Baroness de Laveleye, president of Belgium's W. C. T. U., will be the official delegate of her country. Miss Dagmar Prior will represent Norway and Denmark.

From Edinburgh comes Miss Jane Darling, proprietor of the Darling Regent hotel, known the world over. It has been in the family many years and has always been conducted on temperance lines.

Miss Consuelo Valdez is the delegate from the Philippine Islands. She is a graduate of the School of Pharmacy, University of the Philippines, and is now taking special courses at Northwestern University, Chicago.

Fraulein Wilhelmina Lohmann is one of the German delegates. She was the moving spirit of the recent semi-official vote, the first prohibition vote ever taken in Germany, where at Bielefeld, the unexpected number of 12,621 votes was returned for prohibition out of a poll of 14,061. Fraulein Gustel von Blucher, the great grand niece of the famous field marshal, will also attend the World convention as a delegate.

design. It is cut and designed so that it covers the person, and at the same time its material is cool and pleasant to the touch even on the hottest of summer days. It has been lined with a red China silk, and that lining is carried out at the front so that it forms a sort of revers all the way to the foot of the garment. This facing then continues throughout the garment, so that it helps to give form and substance to the thing and, at the same time, adds so little extra weight and bulk that it is scarcely appreciable. At the places where the gown splits and opens the red lining can be seen through the interstices, and that alone tends to give a trimmed, gala appearance which is most attractive and which breaks the general design of the all-over pattern in an interesting manner.

One never knows until one owns a garment of this sort—midway between the wrapper and the housegown—what a comfort it can be on a trip. Something of this sort comes to mean comfort.

Hand-Made Silk Dress With Cape to Match and Collapsible Hat Designed to Fold Easily Into Summer Baggage.

fort in a way nothing else could. Every time the owner puts it on she will thank a kind Providence for having led her to the decision that brought that particular article of apparel into her wardrobe.

The hand-made dress and cape to match is the sort of thing that is born for packing. The fabric is a heavy canton crepe, and the dress is made along the straightest of lines. There are lines of hemstitching and drawn work for its trimming, and there is not a frill or furbelow that can suffer from packing. Anyone who has owned one of these frocks knows how small a place they take up when folded together, and how satisfactory they are through many months of wear and tear.

Cape of Same Material.

This dress has a cape made of the same material and lined with a light-weight crepe de chine. It may be worn with this dress or with others as a light summer evening wrap, and, for that reason, it serves a place in the traveler's wardrobe which cannot easily be taken by any other sort of garment. Presumably the reader has worn a suit while traveling, and has carried an extra heavy wrap over her arm, but neither the suitcase nor the outer wrap is going to serve for evening demands with which she will be confronted, no matter where she goes. But this wrap can be folded into the smallest of spaces and taken forth on many occasions. Without it a woman would be quite at a loss and if she attempted to pack anything with more weight and body and trimming then she would find herself forced into adding extra luggage to accommodate the extra frills.

Keep the cape simple and the dress simple and half of the traveling battle is fought. And, if the reader follows the scheme, she will have a silk suit which can always be worn for afternoon, often for evening, and sometimes in the morning hours. Moreover, silk is cool, it can stand wet weather and when a colder day makes its appearance the owner can still look well in a silk dress under her heavier coat. There is no angle from which a dress of this character is not satisfactory, and this season to be right in the height of style it is desirable to have it made of that safe old laid color which has taken the place of gray in smart circles. It is a color which goes with most everything and which is becoming to many types.

Avoid Extra Hat Box.

By avoiding the extra hat box, the traveler may save herself all sorts of worry and bother and porter fees. For, with only one bag, she can, in an emergency, drag herself and it around, but with two the situation becomes hopeless. She will find when she starts to shop that there are all sorts of little and becoming hats that can be folded along with dresses as flat as can be, and which will still emerge with none of that mashed appearance. She will live to thank herself for providing herself with this sort of hat instead of the stiffer variety which must be carried for so particularly and which, even then, is apt to come forth after a train or boat trip with that sad and drooping appearance for which there is no salvation.

There are little woolen hats done in bright and interesting colors. Some are made of draped ribbons, and sturdy ones of blocked felt that mesh into small places with the greatest agility and come forth to surprise one by their well-groomed look.

The Bishop Reformed.

Philip Brooks likes to have his joke as well as any man. One day Mr. Baldwin of the Christian union was writing to him and slipped into the letter a newspaper clipping of a talk he had given on profanity. Promptly came the answer from the good bishop: "I have just finished reading your remarks on profanity. You will be glad to know that I agree with them and have entirely abandoned the habit."—Boston Transcript.

An allegorical concept of the Red Cross as a peace-time ideal is employed by the American Red Cross in a new and striking poster for its Annual Red Cross Roll Call. Spread out before the heroic size figure is the outline of the United States with a Red Cross superimposed upon it while around its borders are sketched scenes depicting the chief activities of the Red Cross today—service to disabled veterans of the World War, disaster relief and promotion of the public health. The poster is the work of Lawrence Wilbur, a New York artist and will be displayed throughout the country during the enrollment of the Red Cross membership for 1923.

REAL POETS ARE PROPHETS

They Participate in the Eternal, the Infinite and the One,
Says Shelley.

Every original language near to its source is in itself the chaos of a cyclic poem; the copiousness of lexicography and the distinctions of grammar are the works of a later age, and are merely the catalogue and the form of the creations of poetry.

But poets, or those who imagine and express this indistinguishable order, are not only the authors of language and of music, of the dance, and architecture, and statuary, and painting; they are the institutors of laws, and the founders of civil society, and the inventors of the arts of life, and the teachers, who draw into a certain propriety with the beautiful and the true, that partial apprehension of the agencies of the invisible world which is called religion. . . . Not that I assert poets to be prophets in the gross sense of the world, or that they can foretell the form as surely as they foreknow the spirit of events; such is the pretense of superstition, which would make poetry an attribute of prophecy rather than prophecy an attribute of poetry. A poet participates in the eternal, the infinite, and the one; as far as relates to his conceptions, time and place and number are not. The grammatical forms which express the moods of time, and the difference of persons, and the distinction of place, are convertible with respect to the highest poetry without injuring it as poetry; and the choruses of Aeschylus, and the Book of Job, and Dante's Paradise, would afford, more than any other writings, examples of this fact.—Shelley.

RAISERS INVITED

R. E. Bemmels' Committee Gets the Names of These Men and Asks Them to Make Entries

AT BRAINERD POULTRY SHOW

Aim of Crow Wing County Poultry Association to Widen Scope of the Organization

At a special meeting of the Crow Wing County Poultry Association held at the Chamber of Commerce Sunday afternoon, final arrangements were completed for the coming poultry show December 1 and 2.

R. E. Bemmels, chairman of the publicity committee, reported that his committee has written to the county agents of the adjoining counties, asking for the names of prominent poultry men and that they had received a list of one thousand such poultry raisers, to whom premium lists would be mailed, soliciting entries at the Brainerd show.

It is the aim of the Crow Wing County Poultry Association, to have this annual show grow into a larger and broader proposition, perhaps under the name of the Central Minnesota Poultry Show.

The entertainment, which is being provided to supplement the show, is an innovation and will make the exhibition much more attractive, not only to those interested in the poultry industry, but to the general public as well. The instructive lecture, which will be given at both afternoon sessions of the show will be well worth the price of admission, which by the way, has been set at 25c.

Mr. Stanfield is a recognized authority in the poultry world, coming to Minnesota from Connecticut where he was regarded as one of the biggest men in his line. The first show, which was held a year ago, was a decided success and proved the value of the campaign to create more interest in the agricultural development of Crow Wing county.

The Chamber of Commerce has fostered this campaign. In fact the Poultry Association was born in the Chamber. In line with this program, it is hoped that in the near future something definite may be done to increase the interest in dairying by having a cattle congress, a stock show, or some exhibition of that nature.

QUITE AT HOME IN JUNGLE

Many American Boys Would Keenly Enjoy the Life Led by Youthful English Naturalist.

Guy Wernham, a London boy naturalist, who is not yet sixteen years of age, has traveled 8,000 miles to collect specimens for the natural history department of the British museum. He is now in the jungle—in the French Cameroons, which is one of the richest fields in the world for natural history specimens, according to London Tit-Bits.

The boy is a flame of enthusiasm for everything scientific, and, as his father, Herbert Fuller Wernham, D. Sc., F. L. S., is an expert on tropical plants, Guy has been in the right atmosphere for acquiring knowledge.

Familiar with much of the procedure and appliances of research work, he has a ferocious curiosity concerning all forms of life—botanical, moth, bird and beast. He devours information on nature from books and life, and packs it away in mental pigeon-holes.

Writing from Elat, Guy said: "You would be surprised to hear the noise made by insects at night. There are millions of grasshoppers and crickets, which keep up a constant singing, made by rubbing their hind legs, which are made like rasps, against their wing-cases."

He described the jungle as "a huge hothouse, but with an infinitely greater variety of plants, with the addition of birds, animals, lizards and butterflies rivaling the flowers in brightness of colors."

Toward the end of his journey, on a rough bush track, he was picked up by Doctor Webber of the American mission, who was riding a motorcycle. It was a strange meeting. The natives were very curious about Guy, and had to be assured again and again by Mr. Buck, of the mission, that "he's a real boy."

At Bitle Guy will attend to his collecting, but already a journey across Nigeria is projected. He wants anything interesting—bats, butterflies, birds, squirrels, weasels and plants of all kinds. He goes out at night and "sugars" the trees, collecting the intoxicated insects from them during the day.

Though vessels leave Duala for Liverpool almost every week while men in the interior, owing to the bush difficulties, can neither receive nor send mails except at intervals of two or three months. But this is not good enough for Guy, who is planning to set up a portable wireless apparatus so that he can send and receive from Duala, and so get news to and from home quickly.

Guy can speak and read French and has a knowledge of geology. He is able to draw a bird or plant from life so faithfully that a naturalist can identify it.

Pandora's Box.

Pandora, in the mythology of the Greeks and Romans, was the first woman. She was made in Heaven, and every god contributed something to perfect her, and this is the significance of her name, Pandora, the "all gifted." While she was in the home of Epimetheus she discovered a jar—the famous "Pandora's box"—in which were contained a number of noxious qualities which the Titan had decided not to make use of when he gave man his set of personal characteristics. One day Pandora opened the lid to see what the jar contained and a multitude of unpleasant matters flew out, burdening the human race with many disorders of the body and equally unfortunate distempers of the mind. She attempted to put back the lid, but before she could do so all the plagues had escaped. Only one thing remained in the jar and, when that was examined, it was found to be hope, which ever since has prevailed to lighten the hardships which the remainder of the jar's contents have brought upon mankind.

ODD TRADE SIGNS

Signals That Puzzle American Visitors in Europe.

Bunch of Straw, for Instance, Has Many Meanings, Somewhat Baffling to the Uninitiated.

In many streets of continental Europe are still to be seen signs, or unwritten words, which have no such clear significance as the hat before a hatter's shop or the boot before a cobbler's. Certain of these signs are so obscure in origin and meaning that no one could understand them without reference to tradition or the passers-by.

Everybody in this country knows that a pole painted with spirals of red, white and blue is the usual sign before a barber's shop. But how few know that the stripes are supposed by some persons to represent surgical bandages? That was when barbers performed simple surgical operations.

Before many barber shops in Europe small brass plates are hung. These are oval, concave and curiously scooped out on one side, as if a piece had been bitten out of it. This represents the old-fashioned cupping dish which barber surgeons, or surgeons, used in taking blood from patients.

Who would naturally suppose that mats of straw, loosely plaited and fastened to the corners of buildings signify, that oysters are there for sale? But this is their meaning. In Europe oysters are never eaten except raw, and in mild weather they are exposed on the sidewalk beside a man ready to open them for customers. In bad weather, when the oysters are not exposed, persons who can read may find them mentioned among the names of fish on the shop's placards, but the mats are then expected to inform the illiterate on the spot.

The old proverb, "Good wine needs no bush," refers to the custom of putting a bush before a wine shop door as a sign. Sometimes a branch is placed above the door instead. Often no name or any other sign is displayed by the wine seller.

Such a bush may be of any tree common to the locality. In the North it is often spruce or pine or a huge branch of mistletoe. In the South it is almost always olive or myrtle, and generally renewed on fete days. The bushes have acquired the name "bouchons" in France and this is applied to small taverns also.

The ancient usage of hanging a bush over the door is obsolete in cities, but was doubtless the origin of the habit of placing small evergreens in portable wooden boxes outside cafes and restaurants in Paris and other large communities.

A common sight in Paris is that of horses led through the streets with bunches of straw tied to their tails. This signifies that these animals are for sale. In fact, a bunch of straw tied to any object can always be interpreted to mean that the present owner is ready to enter into negotiations with any one who takes a fancy to his property.

Thus, as he passes along the streets one sees baby carriages, bicycles or any second-hand furniture with the bunch of straw attached. He who runs may read such a sign even better than a written or printed card.

It serves another end as well, for advertisements can be taxed, while there is no tax on a bunch of straw. In France, unless an owner has a regular license to sell, he must place a government stamp on any sign or writing hung at the door. In the same way even a dressmaker or shoemaker in want of apprentices must put a government stamp on any notice so displayed.

A curious instance of this use of straw used to be seen near English law courts of the Eighteenth century. Men willing to bail criminals or debtors were seen parading with straw in their shoes, thus signifying that they would bail for pay. Thus worthless ball came to be called "straw ball."

Pandora's Box.

Pandora, in the mythology of the Greeks and Romans, was the first woman. She was made in Heaven, and every god contributed something to perfect her, and this is the significance of her name, Pandora, the "all gifted." While she was in the home of Epimetheus she discovered a jar—the famous "Pandora's box"—in which were contained a number of noxious qualities which the Titan had decided not to make use of when he gave man his set of personal characteristics. One day Pandora opened the lid to see what the jar contained and a multitude of unpleasant matters flew out, burdening the human race with many disorders of the body and equally unfortunate distempers of the mind. She attempted to put back the lid, but before she could do so all the plagues had escaped. Only one thing remained in the jar and, when that was examined, it was found to be hope, which ever since has prevailed to lighten the hardships which the remainder of the jar's contents have brought upon mankind.

ODD TRADE SIGNS

Signals That Puzzle American
Visitors in Europe.

Bunch of Straw, for Instance, Has Many Meanings, Somewhat Baffling to the Uninitiated.

In many streets of continental Europe are still to be seen signs, or unwritten words, which have no such clear significance as the hat before a hatter's shop or the boot before a cobbler's. Certain of these signs are so obscure in origin and meaning that no one could understand them without reference to tradition or the passers-by.

Everybody in this country knows that a pole painted with spirals of red, white and blue is the usual sign before a barber's shop. But how few know that the stripes are supposed by some persons to represent surgical bandages? That was when barbers performed simple surgical operations.

Before many barber shops in Europe small brass plates are hung. These are oval, concave and curiously scooped out on one side, as if a piece had been bitten out of it. This represents the old-fashioned cupping dish which barber surgeons, or surgeons, used in taking blood from patients.

Who would naturally suppose that mats of straw, loosely plaited and fastened to the corners of buildings signify, that oysters are there for sale? But this is their meaning. In Europe oysters are never eaten except raw, and in mild weather they are exposed on the sidewalk beside a man ready to open them for customers. In bad weather, when the oysters are not exposed, persons who can read may find them mentioned among the names of fish on the shop's placards, but the mats are then expected to inform the illiterate on the point.

The old proverb, "Good wine needs no bush," refers to the custom of putting a bush before a wine shop door as a sign. Sometimes a branch is placed above the door instead. Often no name or any other sign is displayed by the wine seller.

Such a bush may be of any tree common to the locality. In the North it is often spruce or pine or a huge branch of mistletoe. In the South it is almost always olive or myrtle, and generally renewed on fete days. The bushes have acquired the name "bouchons" in France and this is applied to small taverns also.

The ancient usage of hanging a bush over the door is obsolete in cities, but was doubtless the origin of the habit of placing small evergreens in portable wooden boxes outside cafes and restaurants in Paris and other large communities.

A common sight in Paris is that of horses led through the streets with bunches of straw tied to their tails. This signifies that these animals are for sale. In fact, a bunch of straw tied to any object can always be interpreted to mean that the present owner is ready to enter into negotiations with any one who takes a fancy to his property.

Thus, as he passes along the streets one sees baby carriages, bicycles or any second-hand furniture with the bunch of straw attached. He who runs may read such a sign even better than a written or printed card.

It serves another end as well, for advertisements can be taxed, while there is no tax on a bunch of straw. In France, unless an owner has a regular license to sell, he must place a government stamp on any sign or writing hung at the door. In the same way even a dressmaker or shoemaker in want of apprentices must put a government stamp on any notice so displayed.

A curious instance of this use of straw used to be seen near English law courts of the Eighteenth century. Men willing to bail criminals or debtors were seen parading with straw in their shoes, thus signifying that they would bail for pay. Thus worthless bail came to be called "straw bail."

MINNESOTA'S LONGEST PAVEMENT

CITIZENS of Minnesota, residing in the central part of the state, will be well represented at the celebration at Little Falls on November 9th. This celebration will mark the completion of Minnesota's first long stretch of pavement, measuring about 175 miles and reaching from Faribault through St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Little Falls, to a point a short distance north of that aggressive town in Morrison county. It is fitting that such an improvement should be suitably celebrated.

In the celebration on Thursday, officials of the state highway department, the governor of Minnesota, and other prominent officials, will take part in a program wherein the road will be turned over to the use of citizens of Minnesota and others in a formal declaration, but the values of this pavement to the people of Minnesota will not be realized so fully at the time of the celebration as they will be later when passing time has proved just how much of a contribution this pavement is to the up-building of Central and Northern Minnesota.

Brainerd and Crow Wing county ought to be well represented at Little Falls on Thursday. The officials of the state highway department will be there, and they will gauge the sentiment for good roads in this part of the state which will be indicated by the way in which the people turn out for the purpose of showing their appreciation of the work done by the department between Faribault and Little Falls. Other parts of the state are putting forth every possible effort to influence the state highway department to build highways through their territories, and the people of Central Minnesota will be well advised in showing their appreciation of what has been done, so that the department may be encouraged in continuing this pavement as far as Brainerd and, when possible, beyond Brainerd to Bemidji. Such a development would make for the opening up of the country north of Brainerd and would yield future values to this city that cannot be calculated in the present.

Citizens of Central Minnesota, altogether apart from their interest in such future development, rejoice in what has already been done by the state highway department by extending the road so far north, and they will be prompted to make to make an effort to attend this celebration so that they may bear witness to their appreciation of the work already completed.

ARMY AVIATORS CONQUER ELEMENTS

THE flight of Lieutenants John MacReady and Oscar Kelly who, despite adverse weather conditions, remained in the air 25 hours and 17 minutes and covered a distance of 2,100 miles, is another indication of the gradual victory of man over the obstacles that stand in the way of complete mastery of the air. The forced descent at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, does not in any way suggest failure to use the air as a support for a heavier than air plane; on the contrary it suggests that a more complete mastery of mechanics will result in complete control of the air. The failure to fly from coast to coast resulted from a faulty water pipe and not from inability to keep aloft when the machine was operating properly.

This flight, which resulted in establishing new records that have put the United States army in a position to claim the greatest achievement in the history of flying, will stimulate aviators to yet greater efforts and induce mechanics to make still greater efforts to simplify the construction of the machines with a view to reducing the possibility to some slight disorder making it necessary for aviators to come to earth before they have completed their journey.

Every such achievement is a stepping stone to something greater and the risks are not so many as they were before the planes reached their present standard of perfection. Much is yet to be done, and as the faults of construction are made clear by trial they will be corrected, and as the planes are made more serviceable they will complete their journeys. The failure is not in meeting the elements and conquering them, but in building a machine that is capable of meeting the strain imposed upon it by rushing through the air at a speed that would have been considered impossible but a few years ago. This instrument, produced and developed for purposes of war, may become one of the world's greatest assets. By speeding up transportation it will facilitate business transactions, and by bringing statesmen face to face, when troubled questions that carry a threat of strife are clamoring for solution, it may prevent conflicts through making possible conferences which without this means of travel could not be held in time.

ARMISTICE DAY

WHILE no arrangements have been made to celebrate Armistice Day in this city and it is unlikely that at this late date anything will be done that will lead to a suitable recognition of the day, service men in Brainerd and elsewhere will be impressed with what this day actually meant to them in 1918.

The American Legion Weekly, on one occasion, ably expressed the two thoughts that were uppermost in the minds of the American troops when they were advised that the Armistice had been signed. These were: Is it really over? and, Will we be home for Christmas?

The home conditions of which these men dreamed were vastly different from what many of them met when they changed the khaki for civilian dress, and the Christmas spirit of which they thought has not been any too clearly manifest during the years that have passed since they thought such thoughts in muddy trenches and amid the rush and roar of speeding or exploding shells. Armistice Day recalls these dreams to the minds of ex-service men and out of such dreams the world's future good may be born. Home and Christmas! The two words mean so much to every young man who is away from the scenes that have stirred his youth and in scenes that are so far removed from those of home, or the spirit of Christmas.

Armistice Day, by recalling those dreams of home and suggesting the coming of another Christmas, will inspire ex-service men to greater efforts to make comfortable the homes of their disabled comrades and to bring Christmas cheer to the many who lost their sons or husbands or brothers over there.

November 11 will also warm that devotion to their country which already burns in the hearts of ex-service men. For did not home mean America to them and America mean home? Such men will stand for the spirit of peace and good-will in human relations and for America as a country of homes wherein is prosperity, happiness and contentment. If these things are not yet realized the men who thought of home and Christmas in muddy trenches will help to bring them to pass.

If Senator La Follette measures a man by his physical appearance Lincoln won't stand high in his list of great men. Some men are so afflicted that they see wrong in everything. "To the pure all things are pure."

RAIN, clouds and mist, together with a defeat, made November 4th a blue Saturday in Minnesota.

HOW PYGMIES GET BANANAS

Mark Green Bunch With Arrows, Take it When Ripe and Leave Meat in Payment.

The pygmies in Central Africa take up their abode near the village of a big chief where banana plantations abound, from which they may glean when they please. They have two methods of doing this. One is as follows:

A pigmy will mark out a bunch of bananas in a plantation by shooting an arrow into the stalk. The arrow signifies that the pigmy desires that particular bunch when it is sufficiently ripe. The owner of the plantation stands in such fear of the pigmy's vengeance that he never dreams of removing the fruit or the arrow, but leaves both to be claimed by the awe-inspiring dwarf.

By the other method, the pigmy buys the bananas, he fixing the price and paying for it in that which his flat makes currency. On returning home from a day's hunting, with several pieces of meat wrapped in grass or leaves, he goes to a plantation, selects several bunches of bananas, shines up the tree, cuts off the bunches, and in payment, affixes one of the small packets of meat to the stem by a wooden skewer. He has not, in his view, stolen the bananas—he has bought them!

Where Every Bride Is Measured.

The "measuring of the bride" follows every marriage ceremony performed in the English town of Roydon. The reason is that about three hundred years ago the lord of the manor bequeathed the sum of $5,000, the interest from which was to be voted annually to provide dowries for four brides. Under the terms of the bequest, the money has to be divided among the youngest, the eldest, the shortest and the tallest brides married during the course of each year in the parish church. The official records determine who are the youngest and the eldest, but to decide the shortest and tallest, each bride is required to remove her shoes and let down her hair and be measured by the officiating minister.

Legend of Wandering Jew.

The wandering Jew was a legendary personage condemned to wander upon the earth until the second coming of Christ, for reviling the Savior while on his way to Calvary. Some say he was a porter in the service of Pontius Pilate, named Cartaphilus; but others identify him with Ahasuerus, a cobbler on whose doorstep Christ attempted to rest when overcome with the weight of the cross. Tradition has it that Ahasuerus drove the Savior from his door with curses, whereupon Jesus calmly replied: "I truly am going; but thou shalt wander over the earth until I return." Soutney's "Curse of Kehama," Croly's "Salathiel," and the Sue's "Le Juif Errant" make use of this legend, although not in its original form.—Kansas City Star.

112-Year-Old Woman Has Birthday Party; Her Guests All Over 100 Years of Age

MRS. MASCHI URDANG, the oldest guest of the Home of the Daughters of Israel, Harlem, N. Y., has fittingly celebrated her one hundred twelfth birthday.

No children were allowed to mar their elders' pleasure on this festive occasion, although a debutante of 80 and a younger friend of 78 were tolerated as waitresses. They performed their duties with celerity and charm, too.

Each guest, Mrs. Urdang insisted, must be over 100 years of age—much to the disgust of Luigi Friedlovitch, who being merely 92 was obliged to remain outside with the younger set.

The total ages of the 82 occupants of the Home is 6560 years—an average of 80. The combined ages of the eight attending Mrs. Urdang's birthday party, however, is 847—an average of approximately 106. Mrs. Urdang, 112, tops the list. It is easy for her to remember the Civil War, for she was fifty years of age when it began. Even in 1812 she was able to crow lustily at the marching patriots. Mrs. Guter Fox, 108, and Mrs. Esther Tischler, 107, are next in rank. Barnett Berkowitz, 106, is the oldest man.

"These aged men and women enjoy life," said Superintendent Schlessel, himself approaching four score years. "They are a spry and cheerful group, living with a zest that would shame many who are twenty years younger. They want to know the news of the day and keep in touch with world events. Today's fiction, however, does not interest them, as their minds run more to the past."

"They are particularly interested in their food," he continued, "and are like a lot of children when mealtime comes. Their morning cup of coffee, and another again in the afternoon are enjoyed with the same relish as that displayed by a child over his favorite dessert."

Dr. H. W. Honor, on the medical staff of the Home, in discussing the dietetics of the aged, remarked:

"Most of them are fond of soup. They like it hot and rich. For a beverage they prefer coffee and we find that in moderation it is essentially beneficial to those in advanced years. As age comes there is a tendency to hardening of the arteries. This is overcome by the use of coffee which is mildly stimulating in its effect."

OTHER PEOPLES OPINIONS

COMMUNICATION

Dear Boys and Girls of Brainerd:

Of course you know that this is Better Speech Week and that its celebration is nation-wide. I hope that every week you are striving to speak and write the English language better; but this is a special week set aside for a vigorous campaign against the enemies of Good English. Shall we not make a more determined effort this year?

The parents of Poor English, Ignorance and Carelessness, pernicious pair that they are, have been multiplying their brood very rapidly and we have a more difficult task than ever to wipe them out. They seem to have "nine lives" like a cat, and their children persist in coming back after we have done our best to exterminate them. Old man "Get" seems as active as ever, and slovenly Mrs. "Ain't" is still with us in spite of the severe treatment she received last year. Frivolous, empty-headed "Chicken" is running wild and deserves to be cooped up, while no-account "guy" continues to travel in the company of respectable boys and girls, apparently well-liked. These and dozens of other offenders should be summarily dealt with this week—put to death by the executioner, Progress.

I'm sure Coroner Nelson will vindicate every boy and girl and rule that the deed was not only justifiable but necessary, and that obliging Dan Whitney can be counted on to be every where at the same time, remove the remains, and inter them in the Poor English Burying Ground. I don't believe any of your teachers will shed a tear, or even be interested enough to attend the funeral. Methinks I have a picture of some of you hanging on to the hearse.

I hope all of you boys and girls will consider yourselves officers of the Law of Correct Expression and help capture these outlaws which assail the good name of one of our best friends, the English language. Let us stop and think what we would do without this life long companion. Would we willingly, deliberately smirch its character so that other countries lost respect for it? When will "Our Language" be able to fulfill its great mission, that of becoming the universal language, if we fail to remove the stigma attached to its name? Americans are said to be the slangiest, most careless users of speech on the face of the earth. The menace became so great that lovers of pure English felt compelled to rise to its defense. I am very thankful that they established Better Speech Week and I hope you are too.

Will you not think very seriously about this subject, boys and girls, especially you older ones? In your hands will be placed the responsibility of preserving the beauty and purity of our language. If your mother needed defense and protection, there is not a youngster among you who would not be willing to help. Your mother tongue is in danger and in disrepute. What are you going to do about it? Will you help us grown-ups who see what is happening, to re-establish her character and prestige, and bid her God-speed on her journey toward her high destiny? We need you. Arm yourselves for defense and enlist under the banner of Good English. Do it now, this week, every week, and stand by your colors, the red of constancy, which forms the habit of correct expression; the white of purity, which rejects objectionable speech; and the blue of loyalty, which swears allegiance to the best language on earth, the English language.

Earnestly yours,

ROSE M. POWELL

P. S.—Are there words in this letter with which you are not familiar? Look them up in the dictionary this week.

By the way, the "Sloppy Sisters", Misspelling and Mispronunciation, will not hang around very long if you take refuge in the dictionary. They really aren't in good standing, you know, and you are judged by the company you keep.

November 11 will also warm that devotion to their country which already burns in the hearts of ex-service men. For did not home mean America to them and America mean home? Such men will stand for the spirit of peace and good-will in human relations and for America as a country of homes wherein is prosperity, happiness and contentment. If these things are not yet realized the men who thought of home and Christmas in muddy trenches will help to bring them to pass.

If Senator La Follette measures a man by his physical appearance Lincoln won't stand high in his list of great men. Some men are so afflicted that they see wrong in everything. "To the pure all things are pure."

RAIN, clouds and mist, together with a defeat, made November 4th a blue Saturday in Minnesota.

HOW PYGMIES GET BANANAS

Mark Green Bunch With Arrows, Take it When Ripe and Leave Meat in Payment.

The pygmies in Central Africa take up their abode near the village of a big chief where banana plantations abound, from which they may glean when they please. They have two methods of doing this. One is as follows:

A pigmy will mark out a bunch of bananas in a plantation by shooting an arrow into the stalk. The arrow signifies that the pigmy desires that particular bunch when it is sufficiently ripe. The owner of the plantation stands in such fear of the pigmy's vengeance that he never dreams of removing the fruit or the arrow, but leaves both to be claimed by the awe-inspiring dwarf.

By the other method, the pigmy buys the bananas, he fixes the price and paying for it in that which his flat makes currency. On returning home from a day's hunting, with several pieces of meat wrapped in grass or leaves, he goes to a plantation, selects several bunches of bananas, slips up the tree, cuts off the bunches, and in payment, affixes one of the small packets of meat to the stem by a wooden skewer. He has not, in his view, stolen the bananas—he has bought them!

Where Every Bride Is Measured.

The "measuring of the bride" follows every marriage ceremony performed in the English town of Roydon. The reason is that about three hundred years ago the lord of the manor bequeathed the sum of $5,000, the interest from which was to be voted annually to provide dowries for four brides. Under the terms of the bequest, the money has to be divided among the youngest, the eldest, the shortest and the tallest brides married during the course of each year in the parish church. The official records determine who are the youngest and the eldest, but to decide the shortest and tallest, each bride is required to remove her shoes and let down her hair and be measured by the officiating minister.

Legend of Wandering Jew.

The wandering Jew was a legendary personage condemned to wander upon the earth until the second coming of Christ, for reviling the Savior while on his way to Calvary. Some say he was a porter in the service of Pontius Pilate, named Cartaphilus; but others identify him with Ahasuerus, a cobbler on whose doorstep Christ attempted to rest when overcome with the weight of the cross. Tradition has it that Ahasuerus drove the Savior from his door with curses, whereupon Jesus calmly replied: "I truly am going; but thou shalt wander over the earth until I return." Southey's "Curse of Kehama," Croly's "Sala-thiel," and the Sue's "Le Juif Errant" make use of this legend, although not in its original form.—Kansas City Star.

112-Year-Old Woman Has Birthday Party; Her Guests All Over 100 Years of Age

MRS. MASCHI URDANG, the oldest guest of the Home of the Daughters of Israel, Harlem, N. Y., has fittingly celebrated her one hundred twelfth birthday. No children were allowed to mar their elders' pleasure on this festive occasion, although a debutante of 80 and a younger friend of 78 were tolerated as waitresses. They performed their duties with celerity and charm, too.

Each guest, Mrs. Urdang insisted, must be over 100 years of age—much to the disgust of Lugi Friedlovitch, who being merely 92 was obliged to remain outside with the younger set.

The total ages of the 82 occupants of the Home is 6560 years—an average of 80. The combined ages of the eight attending Mrs. Urdang's birthday party, however, is 847—an average of approximately 106. Mrs. Urdang, 112, tops the list. It is easy for her to remember the Civil War, for she was fifty years of age when it began. Even in 1812 she was able to crow lustily at the marching patriots. Mrs. Guter Fox, 108, and Mrs. Esther Tischler, 107, are next in rank. Barnett Berkowitz, 106, is the oldest man.

"These aged men and women enjoy life," said Superintendent Schessel, himself approaching four score years. "They are a spry and cheerful group, living with a zest that would shame many who are twenty years younger. They want to know the news of the day and keep in touch with world events. Today's fiction, however, does not interest them, as their minds run more to the past."

"They are particularly interested in their food," he continued, "and are like a lot of children when mealtime comes. Their morning cup of coffee, and another again in the afternoon are enjoyed with the same relish as that displayed by a child over his favorite dessert."

Dr. H. W. Honor, on the medical staff of the Home, in discussing the dietetics of the aged, remarked:

"Most of them are fond of soup. They like it hot and rich. For a beverage they prefer coffee and we find that in moderation it is essentially beneficial to those in advanced years. As age comes there is a tendency to hardening of the arteries. This is overcome by the use of coffee which is mildly stimulating in its effect."

OTHER PEOPLES OPINIONS
COMMUNICATION

Dear Boys and Girls of Brainerd: Of course you know that this is Better Speech Week and that its celebration is nation-wide. I hope that every week you are striving to speak and write the English language better; but this is a special week set aside for a vigorous campaign against the enemies of Good English. Shall we not make a more determined effort this year?

The parents of Poor English, Ignorance and Carelessness, pernicious pair that they are, have been multiplying their brood very rapidly and we have a more difficult task than ever to wipe them out. They seem to have "nine lives" like a cat, and their children persist in coming back after we have done our best to exterminate them. Old man "Get" seems as active as ever, and slovenly Mrs. "Ain't" is still with us in spite of the severe treatment she received last year. Frivolous, empty-headed "Chicken" is running wild and deserves to be cooped up, while no-account "guy" continues to travel in the company of respectable boys and girls, apparently well-liked. These and dozens of other offenders should be summarily dealt with this week—put to death by the executioner, Progress. I'm sure Coroner Nelson will vindicate every boy and girl and rule that the deed was not only justifiable but necessary, and that obliging Dan Whitney can be counted on to be every where at the same time, remove the remains, and inter them in the Poor English Burying Ground. I don't believe any of your teachers will shed a tear, or even be interested enough to attend the funeral. Methinks I have a picture of some of you hanging on to the hearse.

I hope all of you boys and girls will consider yourselves officers of the Law of Correct Expression and help capture these outlaws which assail the good name of one of our best friends, the English language. Let us stop and think what we would do without this life long companion. Would we willingly, deliberately smirch its character so that other countries lost respect for it? When will "Our Language" be able to fulfill its great mission, that of becoming the universal language. If we fail to remove the stigma attached to its name? Americans are said to be the slangiest, most careless users of speech on the face of the earth. The menace became so great that lovers of pure English felt compelled to rise to its defense. I am very thankful that they established Better Speech Week and I hope you are too.

Will you not think very seriously about this subject, boys and girls, especially you older ones? In your hands will be placed the responsibility of preserving the beauty and purity of our language. If your mother needed defense and protection, there is not a youngster among you who would not be willing to help. Your mother tongue is in danger and in disrepute. What are you going to do about it? Will you help us grown-ups who see what is happening, to re-establish her character and prestige, and bid her God-speed on her journey toward her high destiny? We need you. Arm yourselves for defense and enlist under the banner of Good English. Do it now, this week, every week, and stand by your colors, the red of constancy, which forms the habit of correct expression; the white of purity, which rejects objectionable speech, and the blue of loyalty, which swears allegiance to the best language on earth, the English language.

Earnestly yours,

ROSE M. POWELL

P. S.—Are there words in this letter with which you are not familiar? Look them up in the dictionary this week.

By the way, the "Sloppy Sisters", Misspelling and Mispronunciation, will not hang around very long if you take refuge in the dictionary. They really aren't in good standing, you know, and you are judged by the company you keep.

CITY COUNCIL IN REGULAR SESSION

City Engineer R. T. Campbell Presents Final Estimates on Paving Done by Contractors

6 CONTRACTS ARE CONSIDERED

Matter of Sidewalks on Oak Between 6th and 7th and Other Sections to Be Looked Up

The city council held its regular meeting Monday evening, all members being present except Alderman Cordes, Michael and Anderson. Mr. Michael arriving toward the middle of the meeting.

The matter of purchasing fire hose was first brought up and on motion it was referred to the purchasing committee with power to act.

Harry Miller made application for a franchise to haul ashes and garbage in the city of Brainerd, and this application was referred to the health and police committee to be reported on at the next meeting.

The postoffice department has ordered slots and receptacles placed in doors of offices for the accommodation of city mail carriers, and this matter was taken up at the council meeting, where it was referred to the custodian of the city hall with power to act in placing the required equipment in the office doors in this building.

A resolution was read from the Nisswa Community club, favoring the establishment of a market place in Brainerd. This resolution was ordered placed on file.

The reports of the police committee and the dairy inspector was read and ordered filed. These reports appear elsewhere in the Dispatch. A letter was read from Bishop, Brismar & Co., accountants, in regard to the auditing of the books of the city, and this letter was ordered placed on file for future reference.

A resolution was introduced in which it was resolved that the council find and determine the statement of the financial condition of the permanent improvement revolving fund of the city of Brainerd. This resolution was duly carried, all present voting in its favor. A copy of same will be published in the Dispatch Nov. 8th.

Charles Long appeared before the council and asked for a rebate of $3.25 on an overpayment on a lateral sewer in Southeast Brainerd in 1915. The same was allowed. Three bills for printing of the city amendments at the general election were referred to the finance committee.

The city engineer was instructed to look after the matter of sidewalks on the north side of Oak street, between 6th and 7th streets, and on the south side of Kingwood between 6th and 7th streets; also the street intersection of 5th avenue and Kindred streets.

Alderman Cameron presented the matter of brushing out that section of Ash avenue that will become a part of the new state highway to the Cuyuna range, and stated that he has an offer from a resident of that section to do this brushing for the wood that may be taken off from it. The council so ordered that this work be done for the above consideration.

City Engineer R. T. Campbell presented the final estimates on paving done this year by contractors, which is as follows:

4th and Holly St. Intersections	$ 999.35
4th and Kinwood Intersections	928.50
South 6th street	24,708.32
South 5th street	4,378.62
Broadway, (or 8th St.)	17,017.55
Laurel Street	13,613.40

Estimate No. 1, on lateral sewer C12D3 amounting to $933.50, and lateral sewer ASD5, amounting to $1,288.80 were also presented. Sewer warrants were ordered issued to cover these amounts, less the cash payments to be paid by property owners, to whom the contractor has offered a discount of 10% for cash.

The city engineer also presented estimate No. 1, for grading on 16th and Quince streets, $406, and for improving south 10th street, $640, totaling $1,044.

Lyonais and Cameron moved that estimates be allowed the Sheridan Co. on their contract, same paid less 20% in sewer warrants as near denominations of $250 each as could be conveniently figured.

Alderman Michael and Lyonais moved that a resolution be adopted, ordering the annulment of South 5th street paving and a re-assessment made along this street.

It was moved by Aldermen Brusegaard and Lyonais that the paving under contract of Ostrand & Hallett be accepted according to the recommendations of the city engineer and the street committee, and the final estimate on same be allowed.

Estimate No. 3, on S. Riches & Son contract for general sewer was presented, and on motion it was allowed the same as former estimates for this work have been. The amount of Estimate No. 3, is $7,528.14. The city engineer requested that the contract of S. Riches & Son be extended from December 1st, 1922 to July 1st, 1923, and by action of the council, it was so ordered.

Alderman Michael, in behalf of the property committee, requested further time in the matter of acceptance of the A. A. White park gift, which Mr. White offered to the city some time ago. Further time was allowed the committee as requested.

C. A. Nelson, who resides outside the sewer district, made application to connect with the sewer in another district, and on motion this was granted.

The city engineer reported that he has an offer for the disposal of the old steam roller belonging to the city for $250. On motion, this was referred to the property committee with power to act.

It was moved that all routine bills be allowed, subject to the proper committees, and the council adjourned until Friday, November 10th, at which time a meeting is called to canvass the special election returns on the city amendments.

A HEAVY VOTE IS ANTICIPATED

A heavy vote is anticipated in the city of Brainerd. The rain has held off the major part of the day and the wind has dried up roads.

Up to 2 p. m. the first ward had cast 168 votes of which 39 were women's votes. Clerks of election expected the first ward to cast from 400 to 500 votes. With water and street lights and improvement league and parent-teachers associations and an addition to the school house, this section of the city has grown so rapidly that the vote will astonish one. This polling booth is located in the city hall.

The second ward at two o'clock was a hive of industry. The basement of the Carnegie library housed this precinct's booths. Four hundred and forty-three had voted and 45 per cent were women. This ward may cast 1,018 as it did in the last presidential election.

At 1:45 P. M. the third ward voting in the Northeast Brainerd house had cast 365 votes.

The fourth ward voting in the Southeast Brainerd house had cast 327 votes up to 2:45 P. M.

The fifth ward polling place in the new O'Brien block on South Broadway just south of Fitzsimmons & Wagner's store had cast 450 votes up to 2:30 P. M.

Noticeable at many of the precincts was the presence of many women voters at the hours given.

FAVOR MARKET PLACE IN CITY

Resolutions adopted by the Nisswa Community club November 1 ask that the city of Brainerd or the business men of Brainerd establish a market place in said city to enable the farmers to dispose of their farm produce.

The resolution was signed by President H. M. Hamilton and Secretary John Shull, copies being sent to the Brainerd city council, Chamber of Commerce and all papers of Brainerd.

RIVERSIDE SCHOOL

Parent-Teachers Association Held Monthly Meeting on Friday Evening, Nov. 3rd

The Riverside School Parent-Teachers' Association held its monthly meeting, Friday evening.

An announcement was made that an "improvement league" is to be formed in this district. This is a direct result of the community spirit that has been engendered at the school meetings.

The school needs chairs for use at these gatherings, so Mr. Severson, Mr. Antonsen and Mr. Edwards were appointed as a committee to get some, if possible.

Ever since the first meeting the refreshment committee has been a volunteer on. This time the program committee, as well, was volunteered. S. Anderson, John Spencer and Sam Hawkins offering their services.

During the evening Victor Burgeois, Jr. played several violin selections and the American Legion quartet sang three selections which were greatly appreciated.

Coffee and dainty cup cakes were served by three girls of the Junior club.

The meeting closed with singing.

BRILLIANT ROAD SHOW

Coming to the New Park Theatre for Three Nights Engagement Beginning Wednesday

You will realize quickly why Dr. Lorenz and his 1922 road show have proved one of the cyclonic sensations on the American stage today when they open their three nights engagement at the New Park theatre, tomorrow, Wednesday night, with an entire change of program nightly.

Dr. Lorenz noted American hypnotist is conceded one of the most proficient hypnotists in America, for twelve years he has been the star attraction on big time vaudeville artists, and presents an entertainment that is new and novel differing from anything ever seen in this city. Among the notables on the Lorenz 1922 road show are "Lallara" famed Egyptian dancer, in a bewildering array of costumes will set your brain in whirl with her clever dancing.

Another act on the bill which will hold the attention is Art Vernum the clever San Francisco songster with a voice of rich quality, renders in inimitable manner a program of the latest song hits. Dr. Lorenz the prince of funmaking furnishes more fun than any minstrel, comedy act or circus; he confines his work almost solely to comedy and keeps the audience in roars of screaming laughter as long as he is in action. The San Francisco Examiner said: "The Lorenz 1922 road show is one of the most novel entertainments ever on the stage. Dr. Lorenz has clearly solved the ever perplexing problem of what the public wants in the way of amusement; judging from the capacity crowds that nightly attend this show at the Savoy theatre."

This city is fortunate in securing this splendid attraction, no doubt the New Park theatre will be the mecca for amusement lovers during their engagement which is limited to three nights only, beginning tomorrow night. Ladies free tomorrow night under usual conditions.

Miss Dorothy Jensen of Pipestone, who teaches the Deane school in District 21, lost two toes while splitting kindling wood at the school.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fosson.

L. E. Baker has gone to Savannah, Mo., where he will be treated for cancer of the jaw.

E. P. Tims of Palsade was in town on business.

Mrs. D. W. Hatch is visiting her daughter in Brainerd for a week.

Mrs. W. H. Crisp was operated on in Rochester.

Miss Mary Ryan, daughter of James Ryan of Bain, is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital in Brainerd, having fractured her arm recently when in an automobile accident near Little Falls.

Frank Simon and Mrs. Bernhard Anderson went to Brainerd to visit Roy Powell at the hospital.

Little Falls Country Club Asks the Brainerd Country Club Members to Visit Them

Little Falls is to celebrate the opening of the cement paving on Thursday, November 9. Every agency in the town has been enlisted to add its quota toward entertainment.

Not the least of these is the Little Falls Country club. It has extended an invitation to the Brainerd Country club to use their links and clubhouse the day of the celebration.

Brainerd expects to send a large delegation of good roads boosters to the Little Falls' celebration. Action will no doubt be taken at the Chamber of Commerce meeting this Wednesday evening and preparations made to send a large representation, thus showing C. M. Babcock and others that Brainerd is vitally interested.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Staged by Juniors and Seniors at the High School Building on Saturday Evening

(By E. H. H.)
Saturday evening, November 4th, at 8 o'clock, the Juniors and Seniors staged a Halloween party at the high school building.

The evening was well spent in games appropriate to the season. Fortune telling by Miss Miller is worthy of special mention on a well arranged program.

Kenneth Nicholson, president of the Junior class, acted as magician. He was supported by George Orth as elocutionist, Lucille Nolan as Irene Castle, Myrtle Haake as Gail-Curel, Lloyd Jones as Rudolph Valentino, Lois Chadbourne as Melba, and Harry Sundquist and Arthur Johnson as the two "Brown Brothers". The accompaniments were well played by Ed Tom O'Brien.

The impersonations were so well portrayed that the audience thought these famous theatrical artists were with them in person.

After the program, a delectable luncheon was served, consisting of sandwiches, orange ice, cake and hot chocolate. The dining room and auditorium had been prettily decorated in orange and black by the Sophomore decorating committee.

The Juniors and Seniors were also honored by entertaining the football team, who so splendidly fought an overwhelming victory Saturday afternoon. The party was chaperoned by members of the faculty.

FARM BUREAU SEEKS MEMBERS

Three Solicitors Working Strenuously to Increase the Present Membership of 600

DRIVE ON ALL NOVEMBER

Every Township to be Thoroughly Canvassed Until the Maximum Results are Obtained

The Farm Bureau drive, which is being strenuously pushed in Crow Wing county, is reported as making fine progress in the week in which it has been under way.

Three solicitors are working hard on this campaign to increase the membership among the farmers. August W. Johnson has been working in the northern part of the county, a solicitor by the name of Carlson, in the southern section, and Houston in the Southeastern part.

The drive will continue all through November, until every township has been thoroughly canvassed and the maximum membership obtained. It is hoped that all farmers who are not now members of the Farm Bureau will see the advantage of joining the organization at once, and so increase the efficiency and scope of this great farm brotherhood.

The Farm Bureau boasted in the neighborhood of six hundred members in Crow Wing county before this drive started, and it is the hope of those in charge of the campaign to add at least three hundred names to this list by December 1st. From the interest being taking in the work of the bureau, this goal should be easily reached, if not passed.

Presbyterian Ladies Aid

The Presbyterian Ladies Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. J. E. Jackson, 704 North 7th street on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. James Weiss and Mrs. Arthur Hagberg, Sr., and Mrs. Jackson will entertain. Visitors are cordially welcome.

Peoples Congregational Aid

The Ladies Aid of the Peoples Congregational church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the church parlors, and will be entertained by Mrs. Ida Warren, Mrs. I. W. Crust and Mrs. J. E. Crust.

GETTING TOGETHER FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Nov. 7.—After a lot of petty little bickering around, movements finally have been made to do something constructive to get the United States ready for the 1924 Olympic games.

Acting rather graciously to break what looked like a deadlock of politics, the A. U. A. has made some concessions to their opposing faction that no doubt get all branches of amateur athletics working harmoniously.

The American Olympic Association, in calling a meeting for Nov. 22 in Washington, announced a change in the voting power of the various affiliated organizations which reduced the A. U. A. from 35 to 23 votes. Under this plan, the Army, the Navy and National Amateur Athletic Federation, which objected to the control of the A. U. A., no doubt will join.

Five hundred members from all branches of athletics in all sections of the country will be named on the Olympic committees at this meeting and plans will be adopted to raise funds to finance the trip of the American team to Paris.

Talk of holding the 1928 Olympic games in the United States is not being taken seriously by the A. U. A. officials. They are of the opinion that America would not be selected, even if they wanted the games here and they are not sure that they want them.

It wouldn't be as much fun for the athletes and the officials to get into the subway and go out to the Yankee stadium as to grab a nice liner and go away on a party to Europe.

Genuine regret is expressed over the decision of the "Big Three" to stop inter-sectional games in the future. Harvard did not want to sever the pleasant relations with Centre College. On the contrary, the Crimson officials liked the little southern college, as the Harvard coaches figured it a valuable games for the developments of the team.

Fred More, manager of athletics at Harvard told Charley Moran, Centre coach, that the Crimson always learned something good in the Centre game.

Even if Centre cannot go back to Harvard, it does not mean that the "Praying Colonels" will not be seen in the future in the east. It is understood that both Cornell and Columbia would like to bring the southerners to the Yankee stadium next fall.

Centre had some mighty nice things to say about the way they were treated on their three visits to Harvard.

"Harvard, I think, is one of the finest universities in the country," Coach Moran said. "They couldn't do enough for us. They reminded me of the old woman in the little country hotel who woke her guests up every hour during the night to see if they wanted anything. It's too bad that every football team in the country cannot have the privilege of seeing first hand how Harvard does things."

Harvard has been criticized for many things in the past and probably will be in the future, but no athletic team that ever went to Cambridge said that the Crimson athletes and students were anything but perfect gentlemen and good sports.

Helene Chadwick in "The Dust Flower"

Helene Chadwick, appearing in Basil King's new photoplay, made by Goldwyn, "The Dust Flower" coming to the Lyceum theatre on Wednesday for two days, is noted as one of the most beautiful women on the screen. She was born in Chadwick, N. Y., and studied music early in life, expecting to go upon the concert stage, but when she reached New York City found herself in great demand among illustrators as a model to pose for magazine covers. She soon entered motion pictures and was engaged by Goldwyn for Rupert Hughes' first photoplay, "The Cup of Fury." She has since appeared in half a dozen Hughes pictures and as many other Goldwyn productions.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

DELIGHTS OF EASTERN BATH

Young Persian Girl Writes of Ablutions Which Occupy the Best Part of a Day.

Accompanied by young girls of my own age and by the elderly women who were to bathe us, I was taken to the baths. A narrow stairway led us under ground to a star-shaped room. Its walls were entirely covered by tiles painted and ornamented with Persian writing. Chattering like sparrows, we undressed. Then we went into another room, where walls of heated stone surrounded a pool of warm water. We sat on the edge of the pool and dabbled our toes in it while the bath attendants let down our hair. Then we passed into a room as large and somber as a mosque. There the attendants soaped our hair. When the soap was washed away the hair was dipped in henna and left wrapped in reddening cloths. After the henna, which strengthens the roots, women rinsed the hair for an hour and covered it with curdled milk, which nourishes the scalp. After another interval came another hour of rinsing and an hour of drying and combing. Then the hair, moistened in rose water, was braided.

It was noon, and in another room luncheon awaited us on little copper platters. We went happily, eager to taste the cooler air and to feel beneath our bodies the freshness of divans covered with woven straw. To our dismay, the attendants feared our being chilled, and compelled us to return to the bathroom to eat our dessert, goblets of sherbet and trays of fruit. Then we rested for a while, stretched out on the hot rugs moist with steam, while the servants brought the kaffan.

For the first time, I tasted the scented smoke drawn from through the Today. There is a thing called yesterday, but that is only the dust-bin at the door, into which we cast our refuse, our failures, our worn-out souls. There is a thing called tomorrow, bursting with far better things than those which we have discarded. But in today the whole passionate force of the universe is poured—and therefore today is marvellous.—S. P. B. Mals.

PERIODS OF LIFE

Have You Reached the Age of 40

People aged 40 or over should guard against colds, gripe, influenza and pneumonia. The following symptoms indicate physical decay and lessen your resistance to attacks of colds:

Constipated bowels—Indigestion. Sour gassy stomach. Pain around the heart. Shortness of breath. Congested liver. Weak kidneys.

Health, the most precious gift in life, should be carefully watched by everyone. Millions of people today are guarding their health and keeping their system regulated by using Nature's Great Herb Tonic—Bulgarian Blood Tea.

The rich juices brewed from the roots, barks, leaves, herbs, plants and flowers of Bulgarian Herb Tea aid Nature to remove vicious body poisons that are mainly responsible for ill health. Bulgarian Herb Tea is recommended by many physicians as a reliable family medicine and druggists everywhere endorse it as a pure healthful laxative tonic.

"Here Come the Elephants!"

Do you remember how you used to be on the job bright and early to see the circus parade? Remember how you thrilled as the lions, tigers and the big, lumbering elephants passed in review? How the horses, the blare of the bands, the antics of the clowns, and the glitter of it all inspired you with a fervid determination to see the real show—the big performance in the tent?

You didn't realize it then, but you were getting a lot out of an attractive advertisement.

Perhaps you don't realize it now, but other advertisements, just as attractive, just as interesting and far more valuable to you, parade daily before you in the columns of this paper.

The merchants and makers of everything you want or need, here display before you their most attractive wares. It is truly "the greatest show on earth."

The whole purpose of any advertisement is to excite your curiosity, gain your interest, arouse your desire; to tell you something you don't know; to remind you of something you have forgotten; to convince you of something over which you have been hesitating.

In short, the purpose of an advertisement is, in one way or another, to make you happier.

GETTING TOGETHER FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Nov. 7.—After a lot of petty little bickering around, movements finally have been made to do something constructive to get the United States ready for the 1924 Olympic games.

Acting rather graciously to break what looked like a deadlock of politics, the A. U. A. has made some concessions to their opposing faction that no doubt get all branches of amateur athletics working harmoniously.

The American Olympic Association, in calling a meeting for Nov. 22 in Washington, announced a change in the voting power of the various affiliated organizations which reduced the A. A. U. from 35 to 23 votes. Under this plan, the Army, the Navy and National Amateur Athletic Federation, which objected to the control of the A. A. U., no doubt will join.

Five hundred members from all branches of athletics in all sections of the country will be named on the Olympic committees at this meeting and plans will be adopted to raise funds to finance the trip of the American team to Paris.

Talk of holding the 1928 Olympic games in the United States is not being taken seriously by the A. A. U. officials. They are of the opinion that America would not be selected, even if they wanted the games here and they are not sure that they want them.

It wouldn't be as much fun for the athletes and the officials to get into the subway and go out to the Yankee stadium as to grab a nice liner and go away on a party to Europe.

Genuine regret is expressed over the decision of the "Big Three" to stop inter-sectional games in the future. Harvard did not want to sever the pleasant relations with Centre College. On the contrary, the Crimson officials liked the little southern college, as the Harvard coaches figured it a valuable games for the developments of the team.

Fred More, manager of athletics at Harvard told Charley Moran, Centre coach, that the Crimson always learned something good in the Centre game.

Even if Centre cannot go back to Harvard, it does not mean that the "Praying Colonels" will not be seen in the future in the east. It is understood that both Cornell and Columbia would like to bring the southerners to the Yankee stadium next fall.

Centre had some mighty nice things to say about the way they were treated on their three visits to Harvard.

"Harvard, I think, is one of the finest universities in the country," Coach Moran said. "They couldn't do enough for us. They reminded me of the old woman in the little country hotel who woke her guests up every hour during the night to see if they wanted anything. It's too bad that every football team in the country cannot have the privilege of seeing first hand how Harvard does things."

Harvard has been criticized for many things in the past and probably will be in the future, but no athletic team that ever went to Cambridge said that the Crimson athletes and students were anything but perfect gentlemen and good sports.

Then we rested for a while, stretched out on the hot rugs moist with steam, while the servants brought the kaffan.

For the first time, I tasted the scented smoke drawn from through the hissing water perfumed with attar of roses. It brought me a delicious sensation of age and experience. I lay on the rugs, drawing deep breaths of the smoke and letting them curl from my lips to mingle with the steam in the rays of colored light, and realized all the dignity of my fifteen years. But in a little while I felt dizzy and gladly let the water-pipes be taken away by the attendants.

Our bodies were abandoned to vigorous old women, who massaged every muscle, dipped us into warm water and then into cold, soaped us till we lay in mountains of foam, rubbed us with curdled milk, rinsed us for two hours in water scented with herbs, and at last, with the words, "Ya Allah!" allowed us to escape into a large pool of perfumed water.

They had every difficulty imaginable in persuading us to leave the pool two hours later, because, sitting on the edge of the basin and eating oranges, the young girls were telling such amusing stories that we were exhausted with laughter. Night had covered the glass dome with darkness, and the lanterns were lighted long before the attendants coaxed and scolded us into our clothes.—Asia Magazine.

The records show that Grover Alexander, star right-hander of the Chicago Cubs, has blanked National league clubs eighty times in a period of eleven years. "Babe" Adams is next with forty-three shutouts in thirteen years.

Jimmy (Dike) Brannigan, playing second base for Moline, is not to blame for the poor showing of Earl Mack's team this year. Here is a sample of his work: In the game of June 21 against Danville he handled 12 chances without a bobble and hit a homer with two on.
